Boston University
Where should the scholar live?
In solitude, or in society?
in the green stillness of the country, where he can hear the heart of Nature beat, or in the dark, gray town, where he can hear and feel the throbbing heart of man? I will make answer for him, and say, in the dark, gray town. LONGFELLOW

Alexander Graham Bell and William Fairfield Warren

In the June issue of BOSTONIA, the editors announced as a frontispiece in the September issue a joint portrait of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, and Dr. William Fairfield Warren, under whose presidency and with whose enthusiastic cooperation Dr. Bell originated his work on the telephone.

From 1874 until 1879 Dr. Bell was Professor of the Mechanism of Speech in the School of Oratory of Boston University. Dr. Bell came to Boston last March primarily to attend the unveiling of two tablets commemorating the beginnings of the telephone. The tablets were set up by the Bostonian Society and the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. The first tablet was placed on the site of the building in which the telephone was invented; it reads as follows:

"HERE THE TELEPHONE WAS BORN, JUNE 2, 1875.
The Bostonian Society and the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company Placed This Tablet, March 10, 1916."

The second was placed on the building at 5 Exeter Place, where the first intelligible words were transmitted over a telephone wire by Dr. Bell. The inscription is as follows:
"Here Alexander Graham Bell transmitted to Thomas Augustus Watson the first complete and intelligible sentence by telephone, March 10, 1876."

The Bostonian Society and the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company placed this tablet, March 10, 1916."

At a reception given to Dr. Bell on Tuesday, March 14, at the City Club, Boston, by President Murlin and the Trustees and Faculties of Boston University, Dr. Bell gave a reminiscent address, an abstract of which appeared in the June issue of Bostonia. This address as published in the Boston daily press created widespread interest in him and in his experiences in Boston University during the years 1872 to 1878. During the term of Dr. Bell’s service as professor, President Warren in his annual reports made frequent reference to the origin and progress of Professor Bell’s discovery. By the year 1878 Professor Bell’s work had become so widely known in the scientific world that Oxford University invited him to deliver a course of lectures at that institution. In the fall of that year he complied with the invitation. His success was so brilliant that Dr. A. H. Sayce, the successor of Max Müller in the chair of Comparative Philology at Oxford, wrote to the London Academy as follows: “I must not pass over the extremely interesting and lucid lectures on speech delivered to us at the beginning of the term by Professor A. Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. His command of the vocal organs lent additional force to his exposition of modern researches in the physiology of speech, which was probably new to most of his hearers. The crowded attendance at his lectures was most gratifying; and the attendance was a continually increasing one.” In his next annual report, issued some weeks later, President Warren said: “The application of the authorities of Oxford University for a course of lectures from Professor Bell was not only a high compliment to our University but, what is better, the actual initiation of a practice of international academic exchange which is destined to grow into proportions of the highest importance to civilization.” Boston University may therefore not unfairly claim for itself the credit of having originated the system of international exchange professorships.

During Dr. Bell’s connection with Boston University other honors came to the University through his brilliant work. At the Exposition Universale in Paris in 1877, he not only received a silver medal for his system of visible speech, but was also awarded the Grand Prize of Honor for the telephone. The same international judges gave to Boston University representatives five educational awards, one of them in recognition of the organization and working of the institution itself.

When a fierce campaign of law suits was at a later time undertaken by parties who were determined to set aside the Bell Telephone patent, Mr. Chauncy Smith, who from 1874 until 1884 was Lecturer on Patent Law in the School of Law of Boston University, took up the defence of the Bell Company. Mr. Smith's services in this connection form a notable chapter in the history of American patents. His picture, as well as that of other associates of Professor Bell in those days, will be found in Casson's valuable work, "The History of the Telephone."

REQUIESCANT IN PACE.

DR. JAMES MUDGE, '70, School of Theology, contributed to Zion's Herald for Wednesday, August 16, an interesting and valuable article on some of the distinguished names which he had noted on the monuments in Mt. Auburn Cemetery. The most casual reader of the article is impressed by the prominent position which representatives of Boston University occupy in this list. Among them are two of the founders of Boston University, Isaac Rich and Jacob Sleeper.

Isaac Rich, president of the corporation from 1869 until his death, in 1872, was born in Wellfleet, October 24, 1801, and died in Boston, January 28, 1872. He came of distinguished ancestry. There is good reason to believe that he was descended from the Earls of Warwick, England. Coming to Boston penniless, he by remarkable personal powers, by diligence in business, and by fidelity to moral and religious principle, came to be recognized even by the federal government as standing at the head of all the mercantile houses in his line in the United States. He became the most liberal patron of education that New England up to that time had ever known. To Wilbraham Academy, to Wesleyan University, and to the Theological Seminary in Boston, which later became the School of Theology of Boston University, he gave before his death at least $400,000. At his death he bequeathed to Boston University a sum larger than up to that time had ever been bequeathed or given by any American for the promotion of literary and scientific education. BOSTONIA for October, 1901, contained his portrait and a sketch of his life. His tomb at Mt. Auburn is on Columbine Path. It is a marble shaft, bearing on the front the words, "First founder of Boston University." On the back is a biblical quotation selected by Dr. William F. Warren from Matthew 17: 27,—

"That take, and give for me and thee." On one side of the shaft is carved, "To Wilbraham Academy, Wesleyan University, and to the Boston Theological Seminary, he was the most munificent benefactor of his generation." On the other side are carved the dates of his birth and death, and those of his wife, who died one year before her husband. On the shaft are carved also the names of his four children.

The monument of Jacob Sleeper, a second founder of the University, will be found on Willow Avenue. Jacob Sleeper was president of the corporation in 1872 and was followed in that office by Governor William Claflin. From 1869 to 1873 he was treasurer of the University. Jacob Sleeper was born at Newcastle, Me., which was then a part of Massachusetts, in 1802, and died in 1889. At the age of fourteen he became an orphan; at the age of twenty-one he had lost his property and began life with no resources outside himself. For some years after coming to Boston he was in partnership with Mr. Andrew Carney, the founder of Carney Hospital. President Emeritus William F. Warren met Mr. Sleeper for the first time in 1857 in London and was immediately impressed with his native dignity and grace. He had little taste for political life, yet in response to public demand he became an alderman and a member of the Legislature and twice served as a member of the Governor’s Council. He was twice elected by the Legislature as an overseer of Harvard University. President Warren, in a sketch of Mr. Sleeper’s life in BOSTONIA, January, 1904, says of him: "Suave in manner, distinguished in appearance, tactful in action, exhaustless in kindly energies, he was at the close of his career the man whom multitudes would have named as all in all the noblest example of Christian citizenship known to them in any city. He gave or bequeathed to Boston University more than a quarter of a million dollars, but the memory of his gracious character and beneficent life is a heritage even more sacred and precious."

On the plain stone which marks his resting place are carved the words, "A devout man, and one that feared God, who gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always."

On Yew Avenue is the tomb of Edward H. Dunn, an associate founder of Boston University. Mr. Dunn was born in the city of Boston and received his early training in the schools of his native city. From boyhood he was connected with the hide and leather business in Boston. He served as a member of Governor Gaston’s Council. He was a Presidential Elector at the time of the election of President Grant. He occupied numerous positions of trust in the business world. He was a director in several banks of the Commonwealth. For twenty-eight years, from 1878 until his death in September, 1906, he was a member of the corporation of Boston University. From 1903 to 1905 he was vice-president, and in 1905 became president, succeeding ex-Governor William Claflin. Mr. Dunn during his lifetime had been a generous patron of the University and at his death he left a large sum of money to the institution. In honor of his memory and that of his son, Danforth Richardson Dunn, who died in 1882 at the age of twenty-two, the trustees have established the Danforth Richardson Dunn Professorship of Religions and Religion in the School of Theology. This professorship is held by President-Emeritus William F. Warren. Mr. Dunn's simple monument bears his own name with the dates of his birth and death, 1826–1906, that of his wife Jennie, 1831–1903, and that of his son Danforth Richardson. Under the name of his son are the touching words,— "If affection could have kept him with us, he had not died so soon."

Facing each other on Swan Avenue, near the south gate, will be found the monuments of two Cambridge benefactors of Boston University,— Oliver G. Durrell, who died in 1900, and James A. Woolson, who died in 1904. Mr. Durrell was a trustee from 1890 to 1900. His portrait and a biographical sketch may be found in BOSTONIA for July, 1900. Mr. Woolson, though never a member of the Board of Trustees of the University, had been a generous benefactor of the institution during his lifetime.

On Honeysuckle Path may be found a striking monument of Dr. James E. Latimer, who from 1873 until 1885 was the distinguished Dean of the School of Theology. Dr. Latimer’s term of service in the University began in 1871, at which time he was appointed Professor of Historical Theology, Sacred and Church History. During the years 1874–75 he was also lecturer in History. Although thirty-one years have passed since his death, his personality was so powerful that to this day his influence is potent in the school which he so efficiently served as Dean and Professor. The monument bears the inscription,— "Beloved, lamented, he still lives in the lives of his students."

The Boston University graduate who walks softly through the shaded lanes and streets of this serene abode of those at rest will find other names of friends and noble benefactors of the University. Dr. Mudge has but recorded a few found here and there; from his list we in turn have culled a few of those whose memory the University cherishes and will ever revere.

ALDEN SPEARE.

UNDER the head of "Our Business Pioneers, Men Who Built Up Manufacturing New England," the Boston Globe of Friday, August 4, contained the following sketch of Alden Speare, Esq., an associate founder of Boston University, from 1874 until his death in 1902 a member of the Board of Trustees, and from 1889 until 1902 Vice-President of the Corporation:

"ALDEN SPEARE, WHO ESTABLISHED AN OIL AND STARCH BUSINESS THAT HELD HIGH RANK FOR FORTY YEARS. BORN AT CHELSEA, VT., OCTOBER 26, 1825.

"The grandfather and the father of Alden Speare were both eminent physicians, and all through his early youth Alden had the intention of taking up the same profession. He had fitted for college at the Seminary in Newburn, Vt., but when his father died in 1844, Alden came to Boston and became clerk in a dry goods store — giving up his plans for college and a profession.

"After three years he entered a wholesale house and there he remained for four years. But when he started into trade for himself in 1851, he founded the firm of Speare, Burke & Co., to deal in oil and starch.

"Three years after the business started it was removed to Central Wharf, Boston, where it became one of the important concerns of the city and remained so for more than forty years. In later years the firm's name became Alden Speare's Sons & Co., and Alden was a special partner.

"He felt that education and the care of schools was a duty of the good citizen, so he served for eight years on the Boston School Committee, and then removing to Newton, he served on the School Board there till he was elected Mayor. When the Boston Chamber of Commerce was organized he was a member, and in 1887 he was elected president and served for four years.

"It was he who secured the land upon which the Chamber of Commerce building stands, and he was interested in the erection of the handsome structure and laid the corner stone. He was president of the Boston Associated Board of Trade for two years; he was vice-president of the National Board of Trade, and was vice-president of the Merchants' Association of Boston. His business interests gave him association with banking houses, and he was one of the incorporators of the Boston Penny Savings Bank and was vice-president and trustee of this institution.

"Mr. Speare was a director of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad, of the St. Louis & San Francisco, and of the Atlantic & Pacific Roads. He was also a director of the Mexican Central Railroad and of the Connecticut & Passumpsic Road. He was largely interested in several New England manufacturing concerns and was vice-president of a land company in Arkansas.

"While he lived in Boston, Alden Speare was one of the original members, and was for many years a director of the Young Men's Christian Association, and in 1857 he was the president of the organization. In 1872 he was made a member of the board of trustees of Boston University, and he was vice-president for many years.

"He was an active president of the Boston Vermont Association. He gave close attention to keeping alive in the sons and daughters of Vermont a sense of the privilege they enjoyed in claiming their birthplace in this State. He was a member of the Exchange Club, of the Boston Art Club, and of the old Bostonian Society."

THE thousands of graduates of Boston University who during their undergraduate days knew Dr. William F. Warren as their college president will welcome the recent portrait which we give as a frontis-piece of this number. The older graduates who studied under Dr. Alexander Graham Bell in the early days of the University will recognize with pleasure the face of their former teacher. It is especially appropriate that we should reproduce in company Dr. Warren and Dr. Bell, because in the early and troubous days of Dr. Bell's discoveries and ceaseless struggles to defend his patents against jealous rivals, he had no keener admirer and more faithful friend than his university president, the distinguished founder of Boston University, William Fairfield Warren.
THE University was saddened by the unexpected announcement of the death of Dr. Joel M. Leonard, a trustee of this University, at his summer home, Friendship, Me., on Monday, August 7.

Dr. Leonard was born at Potsdam, N. Y., July 21, 1852. At an early age he came to Cambridge, Mass., where his father was a prosperous leather merchant. Dr. Leonard graduated from Harvard University in 1874. Three years later he completed the course of the School of Theology of Boston University and received from that institution the degree of S.T.B. In 1887 he was awarded the degree of Ph.D. for graduate study in Boston University. In 1902 he received from Wesleyan University the degree of S.T.D. Entering the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, he received his first appointment in the Upper Iowa Conference. Soon after beginning his work as a clergyman, he went abroad and studied at the Universities of Leipzig and Berlin. After his return to America, he was transferred to the New England Conference in 1882, and after that time he occupied for twenty years in succession some of the leading pulpits of his denomination. From 1903 until 1909 he served as District Superintendent of the churches of the Lynn District. During the years 1909 to 1912 he was Superintendent of the Boston Missionary and Church Extension Society. From 1908 until his death he was a member of the Corporation of Boston University.

Dr. Leonard is survived by his wife, Mary Mason Leonard, and three sons,—Hiram West, who is connected with the Walter Baker Company, Ralph Davis, a physician in Melrose, and Roy Mason, an optician in Bridgeport, Conn. The funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon, August 10, at his home in Melrose. The services were in charge of Bishop John W. Hamilton. Those who took part in the services were Drs. J. W. Campbell, George H. Spencer, A. L. Howe, Charles F. Rice, James Mudge, and President L. H. Murlin. A large number of clergymen were present and also a delegation from the trustees of Boston University. The interment was in Wyoming Cemetery, Melrose.

Dr. Leonard was one of the ablest men of his Conference. He was noted for his fidelity, industry, and integrity in every position to which he was appointed. Personally, he was genial, cordial, hearty, and he had a rare faculty of inspiring and retaining enthusiastic friendships.
The acquisition of the Walker Building of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for the College of Business Administration by the trustees of Boston University marks another long step in the advance which Boston University is making under President Murlin. The widespread notice which this transaction received in the press indicates that its significance for the future of Boston University is fully understood by the wide awake editors of Greater Boston.

At the time of sending this issue of BOSTONIA to press, a large force of men was at work on the extensive alterations necessary to fit the building for its new use. The College of Business Administration now has at its disposal a building ample for its present needs and providing room for a considerable expansion in coming years. The acquisition of additional quarters was imperative. During the past year the enrolment in this department was 860, an increase of 130% over the figures of the previous year. Inquiries are now coming in at a rate which indicates a still larger registration for the coming year. Boston University now occupies two large buildings on opposite sides of Boylston Street in the intellectual center of Boston. It seems certain that the University has fairly entered upon a period of greatly increased growth and influence.
On another page in this issue, we give a list of the courses which are offered to teachers and others during the first semester of the coming year. In spite of the growing multiplicity of extension courses, and free public lectures offered by various institutions, the Teachers' Courses of Boston University show year by year an increase in enrolment. During the year which ended last June, the attendance was 423, the largest since the courses were established.

It is evident that a well selected group of courses, maintained on the plane of regular college work and leading to the Bachelor's degree, is attractive not only to earnest teachers, but to a considerable number of qualified men and women who are not engaged in regular professional work.

This issue of BOSTONIA goes to press too early to permit a definite prediction of the size of the entering classes for the coming year. So far as reported at this office, the indications are distinctly favorable, particularly in the College of Business Administration. The attendance at the School of Theology is limited only by the dormitory accommodations. The enrolment of this department was completed several months ago and the Dean has been compelled to reject many subsequent applications. The University is becoming more widely known each year, and this wider influence must result in a greater enrolment. The Year Book soon to be issued will probably indicate a total attendance of nearly 2,700 for the past year, an increase of more than 600 over the figures of the preceding year.

Our readers will be interested in the Spanish advertisements which the College of Business Administration is carrying in the Revista del Mundo, the Spanish edition of The World's Work, designed exclusively for circulation in Latin-American countries. These advertisements are proving effective. Several South American students have already registered in the University for the coming year and others are on the way.
PLANS are under way for the publishing of a general alumni catalogue, to be issued during the latter part of the next school year. It will contain the names, addresses, and biographical data of the graduates of all departments so far as possible, and an attempt will be made to include similar data regarding former students who did not graduate.

The volume will be compiled by R. L. Polk & Co., a firm which has undertaken, with marked success, similar work for other colleges and universities. Their representatives will call on alumni to procure the necessary information; they will also give an opportunity to subscribe for a copy of the book.

The alumni are urged to coöperate with this firm in every way possible to make their undertaking a success. It is understood that no person is required to purchase a book in order that his name and biographical data may be included; nor is any one's loyalty measured by his purchasing or not purchasing the catalogue. At the same time many surely appreciate the value of such a catalogue. The University, therefore, commends this undertaking and hopes many will find it possible to subscribe for the volume since the firm is entirely dependent on the sales for their remuneration.

THE enrolment at the Summer Session was 201, an increase of nearly 50% over the attendance of the previous year. The success of the Summer Sessions has been sufficiently marked to warrant a continuation of the plan; preparations for the work of the next year have already begun.

THE erection of a fine new pipe organ in the gallery of the College Chapel will add greatly to the interest of chapel service. Due notice will be given of the date of the dedication of the organ.

THIS issue of BOSTONIA contains practically all the material which was crowded out of the June issue.
THE UNIVERSITY CONVOCATION.

The annual meeting of the University Convocation was called to order on Wednesday, June 7, at 3 P.M. Dean Homer Albers presided. Prayer was offered by Rev. George William Bell, Ph.D., of Stoneham. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Dr. Emily Loring Clark was reelected secretary.

The results of the balloting for honorary vice-presidents were declared as follows: School of Theology, Ralph T. Flewelling; School of Law, Henry A. Wyman; School of Medicine, Dr. J. H. Bennett; College of Liberal Arts, Lee C. Hascall.

The balloting for members of the Visiting Committee resulted as follows: School of Theology, J. P. Kennedy; School of Law, John D. Drum; School of Medicine, N. R. Perkins, M.D.; College of Liberal Arts, Robert N. Turner.

The above reports were presented by the respective alumni secretaries: Rev. D. H. Hickey, Jay R. Benton, Dr. Harold L. Babcock, Cora L. Rouillard.

Dean W. M. Warren reported for the committee on University badge. The committee favored a torch design. The report was adopted.

An address was given by Mrs. Vladimir G. Simkhovitch, lecturer at Columbia University, a graduate of the College of Liberal Arts, '90.

The benediction was pronounced by Dean William E. Huntington, after which the Convocation adjourned to the lower corridor, where refreshments were served through the courtesy of the trustees.

The secretary appointed at our annual meeting in May, 1915,— Dr. Grace A. Jordan,— was unable to continue the work on account of serious illness in her home, and with regret your executive board accepted her resignation in January of this year. At that time the executive board elected your present secretary to fill the vacancy for the balance of the term. I have incorporated the report of Dr. Jordan with mine so as to make a report for the whole year.

The work of the Boston University Women Graduates' Club for the past year has continued to progress under the leadership of our second president, Dr. Clara E. Gary.

The Club has held five regular meetings,— and special meetings called to arrange details for the Shakespearian Pageant,— seven meetings of the executive board, the "Christmas Spread," and a lecture for the benefit of the Permanent Fund.

At the first meeting, November 19, Mrs. Minna T. Peck gave a very interesting talk on "How to Make Art Interesting," and at the meeting of January 28 Miss Margaret Blaine spoke on "Impressions of Japan." Tea was served for members and undergraduates after both of these meetings.

The "Christmas Spread" on December 17 for undergraduates, arranged by the Women Graduates’ Club and the Faculty Ladies' Club was a happy occasion, and proved again that this old-time custom is enjoyed by all.
At the third meeting, March 10, Mrs. Everett O. Fisk read for us and Miss Isabelle Stevens contributed several vocal selections. Tea for members and students followed.

The lecture given for the benefit of the Permanent Fund on March 15 by Mrs. Minna T. Peck, in Jacob Sleeper Hall, on "Greece, the Land of Myth and Romance," was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it.

After a short business meeting on April 10 a fine dramatic and musical entertainment was given in Jacob Sleeper Hall for members and their friends, by Mrs. Alice Aberdein, Mrs. Isabella Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Cora C. Brooks.

The fifth general meeting was that of the annual meeting, preceded by a Chafing-dish Supper in charge of Mrs. A. Florence Joyce, chairman of the program committee.

Our Club assisted in the Shakespearian Festival given in the College Building, April 7, by representing Ann Hathaway's Cottage and presenting four pantomime tableaux, both unique features, assigned to the Graduates' Club.

We have issued our first Year Book during the past year, and much appreciation is due Mrs. H. D. Boyd for her work in preparing this useful book.

The Boston University Calendar, edited by our president, Dr. Clara E. Gary, has done much to extend the name and influence of our club.

The Permanent Fund, from the seed started by the founder of the Club, Miss Ruth L. S. Child,— our first president,— has been gaining slowly through the year, through personal effort and gifts, but the largest increase will come from the sale of the Calendars.

Although three members have been removed from our roll by death,— Alice O'Brien Shea, '04, C. L. A., Mary S. Butler, '78, C. L. A., and Dr. Leila G. Bedell, '78, Medical School,— and although a few members have withdrawn from our ranks for various reasons, the following fifteen new members have been added to our roll this year: Miss Anna C. Shipman, Miss Sarah Reed, Miss Lillian Decatur, Mrs. Everett O. Fisk, Miss Josephine M. Calderara, Miss Jeannette M. Collins, Miss Minna A. Bretschneider, Miss Bernice C. Scott, Miss Rubie Mae Miller, Miss Mabel I. Gilliland, Mrs. Marion Bulfinch Riker, Miss Josephine Thornell, Miss Helen T. Campbell, Miss Flora Mabel Smith, and Miss Mary M. Souther.

Our present membership roll includes fifteen from the Law School, thirty-two from the Medical School, and two hundred and sixteen from the College of Liberal Arts, making a total enrolment of two hundred and sixty-three members.

Although no appropriation has been made for the Boston Branch of the Collegiate Alumnae Association this year, Miss Eva Channing reported to our president that $25.00 has been paid to this fellowship by individual gifts from our members.

I wish to record in behalf of the club our appreciation of the services of the retiring president, Dr. Gary, for her work in preparing the Boston University Calendar — a work of untold labor, and devotion on her part.

Surely we have had a good year, full of activities, and have proven our loyalty to Boston University in many ways. Shall we not continue to increase our ranks and enlarge our work — realizing that "in union there is strength," and that by organization we can accomplish more than by individual efforts.

(Mrs.) SUSAN L. GREELY, Secretary.
BOSTON UNIVERSITY ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK.

Through the courtesy of Ex-President William E. Huntington, we are permitted to make the following extracts from a letter of Rev. Robert W. Peach, D.D., '96, announcing the completion of the thousand-dollar pledge of the New York Association to the Endowment Fund:

271 Parker Street, Newark, N. J., June 6, 1916.

Dean William E. Huntington, Ph.D.

Dear Dr. Huntington,—

"You probably have been informed that the Thousand-dollar Pledge of the New York Association to the Endowment Fund has been completed. I want you to know that it was gratitude for the benefits bestowed upon me by the University, through your kind favor, which made me undertake, four years ago, the raising of $880 of this — only $120 having been paid the first two years of our association's life.

"As treasurer, May, 1912, it became my duty to receive and disburse moneys. Months passed without my receiving anything for the Endowment Pledge. Then I began my voluntary work of soliciting contributions. In the course of the four years I have sent out hundreds of circular letters at a time repeatedly — annotating many of these letters, and I have written hundreds of personal letters.

"One member did more than all others toward making the campaigns a success — Mrs. Charles W. Parsons (Ethel D. Fisher). At one time she offered $50 if the balance were raised in a certain time; then, when the condition was not met, gave the $50 anyway. Another time she offered the last ten per cent, meanwhile having twice contributed amounts of $10. Mrs. Parsons was not a member when the pledge was made; she came in the following January.

"Miss Emma F. Lowd helped staunchly; and, at the last, at my request, Mr. Austin B. Fletcher (who had felt that the others ought to rise to their opportunity, and not call upon a direct giver) offered the last $50, and gave more when that did not suffice. Others there were who gave no single large amount, but kept helping. I specially mention, alphabetically, the following: Miss Bertha F. Courtney, Miss Linda M. French, Miss Katherine I. Hodgdon, Miss Caroline G. Howe, Miss Winifred E. Howe, Miss Clara H. Whitmore.

"The following is a complete alphabetical list of the contributors to this fund: Rev. Antonio A. Arright, Mrs. Hubert Arrowsmith (Josephine Howard), Leonard P. Ayres, Ph.D., Mrs. Samuel W. Baker (Minnie R. Perry), Miss Abby B. Bates, Rev. Daniel M. Birmingham (died June 18, 1915), Miss Grace N. Brown, Mrs. Edward F. Chamberlin (Caroline D. Beddoe), Earle Clark, Miss Bertha F. Courtney, George B. Currier, Miss Mary Elma Dame, Harold N. Eldredge, Austin B. Fletcher, LL.D., Bertram L. Fletcher, Miss Linda M. French, Miss Elizabeth Goldsmith, Rev. Charles L. Goodell, D.D., Edward R. Hardy, Mrs. Edward R. Hardy (Sarah Belcher), Miss Katherine I. Hodgdon, Mrs. George W. Holmes (Lucy Hale), Miss Mercy M. Hood, Miss Caroline G. Howe, Miss Winifred E. Howe, Effie Howe-Turton, M.D., Dean William E. Huntington, Ph.D., Miss Florence M. Kilburn, Howard R. Knight, Miss Alice Maude Lawton, Miss Emma F. Lowd, Waterman Lyon, M.D., Franklin R. Magee, Orison Swett Marden, LL.D., Ernest A. Maynard, Mrs. William H. H. Mount
The Boston University Association of New York held its sixth annual meeting and dinner at the Aldine Club on May 5. In spite of an attendance of only thirty-five, the evening was a success, chiefly because of the two guests who voiced the purposes of such an association. Professor Perrin helped us to see the University of today, with all the improvements that have come since our own times, and Mr. Baldwin was induced to give some account of his own New York work. An Alumni Association should keep alive the interest in the college and should give its members the right to feel a glow of pride in the big things its members are doing. Personal friends of both speakers came to renew old acquaintance, which makes a third reason for such an organization.

Professor Perrin gave great pleasure as he compared the two ends of our long name and pointed out the differences between then and now. He stated that there are many young graduates in New York who are afraid of our old workers. It is proposed to dare them to send their names to the secretary, Mrs. Arrowsmith, 170 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, in time to be summoned to a November meeting.

MRS. JOSEPHINE HOWARD ARROWSMITH, '90.

THE POP CONCERT.

The Pop Concert, which was held Wednesday evening, June 7, was an unqualified success. For the first time, enough money was taken in from the sale of tickets to pay expenses, and to leave a small balance as well. The box office reported that hundreds were turned away, unable to get tickets. This means that every seat in both balconies was sold and every seat on the floor, with the exception of the fifth and sixth seats at the extra tables in the rear of the hall. Undoubtedly this was one of the largest gatherings at the Pop Concerts this season.

Sections on the floor were reserved for members of several of the classes which were holding reunions. College songs and cheering enlivened the intermissions. Both Glee Clubs gave several selections.

At the meeting of the trustees on Tuesday, June 6, the following resignations from the Board were received and accepted: Rev. J. W. Campbell, of Newtonville; Mr. Olin Merrill, of Enosburg Falls, Vt.; Dr. Campbell has accepted the presidency of Simpson College, Iowa; Mr. Merrill is prevented by business interests from attending the meetings of the Board. The vacancies were filled by the election of Dr. Edwin Holt Hughes, who comes to Boston as the new resident Methodist Episcopal Bishop, and Dr. E. C. E. Dorion, the Associate Editor of Zion's Herald. Bishop Hughes is a graduate of the School of Theology. He received his collegiate training in Ohio Wesleyan University. Dr. Dorion has been Associate Editor of Zion's Herald since 1912. He received the degree of D.D. from Baker University while President Murlin was at the head of that institution. Rev. W. I. Ward, of Newport, R. I., who has been a member of the Board since 1908, was reelected.

During the summer an organ, costing $3,000, was installed in the gallery of Jacob Sleeper Hall. This organ is the gift of Mrs. A. F. Webster, of Boston, as a memorial of her brother, Dr. Freeman M. Josselyn, who from 1901 until 1907 was Professor of Romance Languages in Boston University. After his resignation, in 1907, Dr. Josselyn went to Italy and resided in Florence. Later he went to Munich, Germany. While on a visit to Boston last February, he was taken ill and died at a private hospital. Soon after the opening of college the organ will be formally dedicated. As soon as the date and the program have been decided, announcement will be made in the daily press.

President Murlin gave the Commencement address at Wilbraham Academy on Tuesday, June 13.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PHI BETA KAPPA.

The annual meeting of Epsilon of Massachusetts, Phi Beta Kappa, was held in the Claflin Room of the College of Liberal Arts on Friday afternoon, May 5, at five o'clock. Professor R. E. Bruce, the president of the chapter initiated the fifteen members elect of the senior class: Christine M. Ayars, Dorothy P. Dorr, Susan B. Faden, Elizabeth C. Ferguson, Herrick E. H. Greenleaf, Grace E. Jefts, Kathryn L. Lee, Caroline E. Legg, Esther M. Lydon, Florence H. Perry, Miriam B. Smith, Beatrice Spector, Marian L. Spencer, Earl W. Stevens, Dorothy S. Taylor. The committee on alumni and honorary nominations presented to the chapter the names of those members of the classes of 1878 to 1890 eligible for election who had been duly nominated at the preliminary meeting held Saturday, April 29. The following alumni were thereupon elected to membership in the chapter: 1878, Lydia B. Godfrey, Ellen J. Lane, Charles C. Dodge; 1879, Lucy G. Peabody; 1880, Willis P. Odell; 1881, Harriet C. Peirce, (Mrs. Newton S. Fuller), Louise S. Prosser, (Mrs. Francis E. Bates); 1885, Mary C. Warren (Mrs. Henry M. Ayars), L. I. Marion Butterfield (Mrs. F. H. Knight); 1886, Martha L. Roberts, Joseph C. Hagar, Lillian E. Downes; 1887, Mary H. Tcele, Margaret G. Bradford (Mrs. Walter H. Hildreth); 1888, Ida E. Sawin, Susan S. Brayton, Susan Peirce (Mrs. Dillon Bronson), Julia Evans; 1889, Mark Jefferson, Florence Barry (Mrs. Oscar Dressel); 1890, Stephen Emery, Mabel O. Mills, Edith R. Lynch (Mrs. Percy G. Bolster).

The chapter gave a unanimous and cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Irving P. Fox, 1883, for his valuable service to the chapter in putting into printed form the Directory of Epsilon of Massachusetts. Through his courtesy five hundred copies have been at the disposal of the chapter for distribution to the members, and the secretaries of all the branches of the Society.

The officers of the chapter elected for 1916-1917 are as follows: president, Professor Robert E. Bruce; vice-president, Dean Everett W. Lord; secretary, Miss Ada A. Cole; treasurer, Miss Mabel F. Barnum.

After the routine business was finished the members reassembled in the Gamma Delta Room where a Phi Beta Kappa collation was served, and a social hour followed. Professor Bruce acted as chairman of the program prepared in honor of the initiates. Dr. Donald Cameron, the historian, gave a sketch of Phi Beta Kappa, outlining its inception and growth, mentioning the long list of great men in the Harvard Chapter, and in conclusion explained the symbolism of the badge. The next speaker, Dean W. M. Warren, ever warmly received, was on this occasion welcomed back from his journey south, which by happy coincidence included a visit to the birthplace of Phi Beta Kappa,—the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Virginia. We could almost see the picture of the old college, as the Dean gave it to us, whose walls the “centuries of time” had painted in pastel,—all in an atmosphere of restfulness and ease. Professor E. C. Black was introduced to speak on “Phi Beta Kappa and the College Library.” He referred to the chapter fund set apart for the purchase of books in honor of Thomas Bond Lindsay as “a signal and sympathetic honor” for to Professor Lindsay the library was the heart and soul of the University. To show that Boston University has gone on Professor Black mentioned the good news that the acceptance of our A.B. degree by Edinburgh University will henceforth make study in the Scottish Universities free as air. For the library committee Professor Black reported that the shelves are not filled with thousands of useless volumes, but it is a most useful library. The list of books purchased this year by the Phi Beta Kappa chapter was then announced.

ADA A. COLE, Secretary.

During the year 1915-16 the following works were added to the College Library from the proceeds of the Phi Beta Kappa fund: An American Garland, edited by C. H. Firth; Diary of Samuel Pepys, two volumes; Life of William Shakespeare, by Sir Sidney Lee, edition of 1916; Problems of Science, by Federigo Enriques; Becker's Gallus, translated by Frederick Metcalfe; Education in Religion and Morals, by G. A. Coe; The Bible in Spain, by George Borrow; Lavengro, by George Borrow; Romany Rye, by George Borrow; Theocritus, Bion and Moschus, translated by Andrew Lang; The Practical Conduct of Play, by Henry Curtis; Aucassin and Nicolete, translated and edited by Harold Childs; Roman Poets of the Augustan Age: Virgil, by W. Y. Sellar; Mediaeval Church Architecture of England, by C. H. Moore; Works of James Fenimore Cooper, thirty-two volumes.

Under the heading “A Southern Sauntering” Dean W. M. Warren contributed to the Boston Herald of Thursday and Friday, May 18 and 19, two articles on “Our Most Historic River,” the James River. The articles embody some of his observations during his recent visit to Durham, N. C.

The Christian Science Monitor of Thursday, June 1, has this to say about Professor Dallas Lore Sharp’s recent book “The Hills of Hingham”:

“Boston is fortunate in retaining from decade to decade and generation to generation a succession of interpreters of nature who blend the gifts of naturalist and nature lover, and then top these off with a good discursive, popular style which enables them to write well about what they see and hear in field and in wood and on the sea. Sometimes they are natives and sometimes foreigners. Of the latter is Dallas Lore Sharp, who first saw the light in New Jersey, and did not identify himself with Massachusetts until after a study of books and men at Brown University. Then came a career as Methodist preacher, then enlistment as a teacher in Boston University, where since 1909 he has been professor of English literature. He now combines the life of a country dweller at Mullein Hill, Hingham, and a teacher in a city university, and it is the interplay of the two sets of duties and delights which this dual life involves which this book records. The breezes of Massachusetts Bay blow through it, and the wisdom of New England's idealists exudes from it. Some of the chapters will come as old friends to readers of the best monthlies, where this author now seldom knocks in vain for admittance. As a nature essayist he has 'arrived.'"

The book is published by Houghton, Mifflin Company, $1.25 net.

Mr. Alfred Ernst Rejall has been appointed Instructor in Education. Mr. Rejall is an alumnus of Columbia University, and while there, and at Teachers' College, studied widely in Education, with special interest in problems of Educational Psychology. For three years he was an instructor in the State Training School for Teachers at Albany; more recently he has directed the educational work of the 23d Street Young Men's Christian Association, and has continued his educational investigations in New York City. Mr. Rejall's field in the Department will include Educational Psychology and related topics. The other courses, as last year, will be given by Professor Wilde.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF '91.

At a meeting last Christmas the Class of '91 decided to celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary by trying to enlist all members of the class in the Living-Endowment Association, and thus show their gratitude to their Alma Mater. As a result of the effort made, a large majority of the class are now enrolled as contributors to this fund.

A new "Class Record" was printed and sent out before Commencement containing letters from nearly all the members of the class. This feat was accomplished through the energy of our secretary, Mrs. Emily Young O'Brien, and our president, Augusta N. Putnam.

Our June Reunion was held at the Epsilon banquet on Tuesday evening, June 6. Here fourteen members of the class, with three husbands in addition, gathered together at a table in the Gamma Delta Room, close by the youthful Class of '16. Recalling the enthusiasm of our college days, we made our yells heard along with the yells of the younger classes.

We held a short business meeting at the close of the banquet, voting to hold our next meeting at the Epsilon dinner of June, '17.

It was also voted to publish a "Class Record" every five years.

Our secretary, Mrs. O'Brien, had been so fortunate as to secure a seat at the Republican Convention, then in session at Chicago, so the members of '91 present decided to send her a night letter, thanking her for her energy and success in getting out the "Record" before Commencement, and also, after a vote had been taken, instructing her to vote for our favorite nominee, Judge Hughes.

Our present officers: the president, Miss Augusta N. Putnam, and the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Emily Young O'Brien, were reelected; Miss Cora S. Cobb was elected vice-president.

The class planned a second reunion at the Pop Concert on Wednesday evening, when nearly all those present on Tuesday night, together with a few additional members, assembled at neighboring tables.
The following is the list of those present on Tuesday evening: Miss Augusta N. Putnam, Miss Cora S. Cobb, Miss Eva Palmer, Mrs. Edith McKeown Wilmarth, Mrs. Bloomie Crook Seaver, Mrs. Helen Wadsworth Graves, Mrs. Anna Warren Dunn and husband, Mrs. Marion Norris Pierce and husband, Mrs. Harriet Chase Emery and husband, Miss Emily F. Allen, Miss S. Augusta Collins, Miss Harriet L. Goodridge, Rev. Joseph E. Waterhouse, Rev. Harry G. Butler; and on Wednesday, at the Pop Concert, Mrs. Agnes Chase Holway, husband, and daughter Katharine.

HARRIET L. GOODRIDGE, Secretary Pro Temp.

In commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of its graduation, the Class of '91 has issued, through its secretary, Emily Young O'Brien, a statistical record. Each of the members of the class contributes a biographical sketch. Miss Augusta N. Putnam contributes a poem entitled "1891-1916." From the record we learn that five members of the class have died since graduation: Bertha Briggs Allen, November 16, 1898; Helen Emerson Andrews, October 7, 1901; Edith May Cormier, May 16, 1893; Daniel Richards, Jr., May 1, 1906; J. Wesley Spencer, November 28, 1891. Twenty-nine members of the class are married; eleven are teachers; five are ministers; two are professors; four are engaged in literary work; one in mathematical work; one is a lawyer; four are in business; one is a statistician; two are living at home.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE CLASS OF 1896.

In celebration of its twentieth anniversary, the Class of 1896 held an enjoyable and enthusiastic meeting in Jacob Sleeper Hall, at 3:30 P.M., on Tuesday, June 6, directly preceding the regular business meeting of Epsilon. The president, Dr. Howard Crawford, was in the chair and welcomed the members. There was a complete reorganization of the class and a new constitution was adopted. Dr. Crawford was again elected president, and Emily Hall Cook was elected secretary. It was with the deepest regret that the class accepted the resignation of Miss Crace Brown, who has given such faithful service as secretary during the twenty years since graduation.

Letters of greeting were read from Miss Lillian Bryant, Miss Grace Brown, and Mr. George M. Churchill. Among those who have been kept away in the years past were Mrs. Helen Armstrong Pratt (who expressed her loyalty by coming from Bellows Falls, Vt., on a "flying trip" especially for this reunion), Mr. Ernest Lavalette, and Rev. John Mason. The class gave these members a special welcome on account of their long-enforced absence. All members expressed their pleasure at getting together, and it was the wish of all that these reunions might take place much oftener in the future. It was suggested that it would be pleasant to have a meeting at which the children of members shall be present. Some plans were suggested for the twenty-fifth reunion, which will rival even this in enthusiasm.

At the Epsilon dinner which followed the business meeting, '96 had a special table, and with its numbers increased, enjoyed still further the renewal of old friendships. The class was by no means silent and it let other classes know of its existence by giving the class cheer in spirited fashion.

In the general exercises of Epsilon, '96 was ably represented by Mr. Raymond A. Robbins, who led the cheering and also acted as usher in the impressive service of initiation of the Class of 1916.
At the "Pops" on Commencement night, still more classmates came out to greet one another and showed their loyalty. Mrs. Stella Converse Thompson and Mrs. Susie Flint Page were among this number.

The secretary has received word of the death of only two of our members in the past twenty years. The loss of Grace E. Ela and Mary L. Follett is a deep one, however. They will always be held in high esteem by their classmates and all others who knew them.

It is hoped that all who could not be with us this year will make a special effort to be here at the next reunion. Let everyone remember that if he is not there, at least one person will be missed by all others and let us all make an effort to have the whole number of fifty-six members present five years from now.

EMILY HALL COOK, Secretary.

REUNION OF 1901.

The Class of 1901, celebrating its fifteenth anniversary, had such an enthusiastically good time that plans were made immediately for a rousing reunion at Christmas. If we can have as large a number, proportionately, then as we had this time, the Epsilon Cup for the best attendance will be ours and the "Class of 1901" will be engraved thereon. Readers of 1901 are you going to help? Then come to the Christmas reunion!

Having a separate room for our dinner helped make our reunion a real "get together," and gave us a chance to "reminisce" to our hearts' content. It was intensely interesting to hear "The Story of My Life" from each one as the roll was called, showing that the paths from 1901 to 1916 had led through many and various places. Twenty-two were there to give their story in person, and as many more were heard from by letter. The husbands and wives that came seemed to enjoy it, too. Let us have more next time!

Following are some of the notes the secretary jotted down while the "stories" were told: H. M. Anthoine, returned from California to Nashua, N. H.; R. Anthony, teaching, Springfield; Mr. Ashby in Colorado; Hulda Barnes-Ward, one son, Waltham; F. M. Barnes, Collector of United States Customs, Richford, Vt.; Mabel Barnum, Boston University College of Liberal Arts, Librarian; Helen Barrett, teaching business, Cranston High School, R. I.; Alice Black-Melville, three children, Swampscott; Edith Blanchard, teaching, Providence, R. I.; Bessie Boutelle-Kelly, two children, Dorchester; Susan Brown, teaching, Worcester; Robert Bruce, Professor of Mathematics in Boston University, one son; Marion Bulfinch Riker, Somerville; Edith Chapman-Sargent, returned from California to Lynn; Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Chapman (Nettie Dodge), five years in Philippine Islands, now teaching Spanish, Somerville, three children; Dr. Wm. Coles, from Westboro to Keene, N. H.; Maebelle Copp-Nash, Philadelphia, Pa.; Sophy Parker, teaching, Baker University, Kansas; Maude Winchester-Hullihen, Sewanee, Tenn.; Ruth Rishell-Frick, largest Methodist church in Buffalo; Cora Kenty-Travis, Framingham, studying for an A.M. at Wellesley; Anne Towle, teaching high school, Manchester, N. H.; E. W. Crawford, lawyer, Boston; Leon Crouch, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Boston; Gertrude Curtis, Passaic, N. J.; Emma Dight Whipple, two children, Natick; Julia.
Dorington, teaching, Blackstone; Miss Edmunds, teaching, Notre Dame, Boston; Bessie English-Ryan, Jamaica Plain; Rev. A. A. Felch, returned from California to Natick, two children; Wilbur Fiske, newspaper work, from Florida to Labrador, coal business, Stoneham, two children; Blanche Fogg-Garceau, three children, Akron, O.; George Gilbert, organized a Farm School at Segreganset, Mass.; M. Gilliland, newspaper work, Salem; Eleanor Good, Welfare Work among employees of clothing manufacturers, Rochester, N. Y.; Frances Hall, Jersey City; A. Hemenway, high school principal, Leyte, Philippine Islands; Clyde Hood-Ryther, two daughters, Newton Centre; Winifred Howe, Metropolitan Art Museum, New York; Hester Howland, dressmaking, Norwell; Elizabeth Hunter-Ladd, West Newton; Carrie Kelly-Urquhart, Stoneham; Miss Larkin, teaching in home town; Isabelle Leighton-Hall, three daughters, Cambridge; Flora Lilienthal, Insurance Library Association, Boston; Evelyn MacIsaac-Tibbetts, Somerville; Donald MacKenzie, instructor at Harvard; Rev. Malcolm McPhail, Dorchester Presbyterian Church; Gertrude Merrill, high school, Hartford; C. Murphy, high school, Lowell; Edith Ordway, editorial work, Medford; Clarence Pond, pastor of Baptist Church, Beverly Farms; Sarah Rextford-Noyes, one son, Melrose; A. H. Rice, Professor of Latin, Boston University, five sons; Anna Robinson Nickerson, Malden; Agnes Sargent-Santon, deceased; C. Schmidt, teaching, Los Angeles; Charlotte Sibley-Smith, one daughter, Hyannis; Nelson Smith, principal of high school, Santa Maria, Cal., one daughter; Mary Sullivan, Girls' High School, Boston; Maude Tafts-Fiske, one son, Temple, N. H.; Cora Templeton, at home, Chelsea; Pearl Timberlake-Field, Maine; Emily Trommer-Ricker, three children, Dorchester; Mary Vassar, editorial work, Lynn; Arthur Wright, Methodist Church, Bethlehem, N. H.; W. E. Annis, Christian Science Reader, Marshfield.

ANNA R. NICKERSON.

The Class of 1906 had an enthusiastic preliminary reunion on the evening of February 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Avery. Plans were started looking toward a celebration in June of the tenth anniversary of our graduation.

Both the secretary and the treasurer presented their resignations, as they had found it impossible to continue in their positions on account of their distance from Boston. No persons were chosen to fill these offices, but the affairs of the class were placed in the hands of an Executive Committee consisting of L. R. Talbot, A. H. Avery, and Mrs. F. A. Rugg (Sarah Gertrude Pomeroy), with the president, Clarence B. Hill, a member ex officio. This committee was instructed to arrange all details for the celebration in June.

The following members of the class were present: Harriet V. Elliot, Margaret I. Shirley, Francesca S. Willard, Alice E. Perkins, Ruby H. Cole, Annie T. Gilchrist, Emma L. Fall, Sarah Pomeroy Rugg, Gertrude R. Berry, Elizabeth J. Murphy, Ethel Piper Avery, Gleason L. Archer, Frederick R. Willard, A. H. Avery, and L. R. Talbot.

The class held its tenth reunion on Saturday, June 3. Twenty-four members of the class, with two others, met at the College building at ten o'clock, and after having their pictures taken on the College steps, set out in automobiles for the New Black Rock House, Jerusalem Road, Cohasset. The larger number went in a sight-seeing automobile, while a few went in a smaller car owned by one of the members of the class.

Dinner was to be served at the Black Rock House at 12.30, but as the chauffeur did not know the way, and took the party four-fifths of the way around a circle, it was 1.45 before the class sat down at the table. However, no fault was found as the extra distance meant merely so much more ride for the money, and when dinner was served the hungry guests forgot all about their previous anxiety lest the hotel people would serve all the food to other guests before the Class of 1906 arrived.

After dinner the party gathered in a circle on the large piazza of the hotel and held a brief business meeting, at which L. R. Talbot was elected president and Miss Ruby H. Cole, secretary-treasurer. Letters were read from a large number of absent members of the class, after which each one present, in turn, gave an outline of what he or she had been doing during the ten years since graduation.

The class has been congratulating itself on the fact that it chose the finest day in the first half of June for its trip. No rain fell until seven o’clock, while the party was on its way back to Boston in the automobiles. However, as the committee had thoughtfully provided enormous farmer’s hats for each person present, the rain did not cause serious damage.

The Class of 1906 feels that it has established a record in that the advertised cost for the day’s outing was $3.50, but the actual cost was $3.00 apiece, and after all bills are paid there is still a substantial balance in the treasury for use in planning future reunions.

It is planned to hold a small informal reunion each year, some time during the winter, at the home of some member of the class, and in 1921 to hold a big fifteenth reunion.

The following were present: Mr. Alfred H. Avery, Mrs. Chas. H. Keyes (Carrie A. Bacon), Miss Hattie May Baker, Miss Carlotta M. Brant, Miss Florence A. Burt, Mrs. Martha D. Chase, Miss Ruby H. Cole, Miss Harriet V. Elliott and sister, Miss Annie T. Gilchrist, Miss Florence S. Greer, Mr. Clarence B. Hill, Mrs. Bacon (M. Lillian Horne), Mrs. Norman B. Potter (Jessie M. Loud), Miss Elizabeth J. Murphy and sister, Mr. W. Henry Hathaway Peirce, Mrs. A. H. Avery (Ethel M. Piper), Mrs. F. A. Rugg (Sarah G. Pomeroy), Miss Katherine G. Powers, Miss Hazel M. Purnort, Mrs. Albert Schofield (Emma L. Fall), Miss Margaret I. Shirley, Mr. L. Raymond Talbot, Miss Louise A. Thacher, Mr. William T. Williams.

THE ALUMNI.

On April 19, 1916, our hearts were saddened by the death of Leona Chandler Raymond. Mrs. Raymond was born in Warren, N. H., March 29, 1881, and spent her girlhood in that state. At the age of fifteen she came to Malden, Mass., where she graduated from the high school in 1899; she then attended a business college, thus fitting herself for a position as stenographer. While working a number of years for several mercantile houses, she constantly had a higher aim in view, and to accomplish this entered Boston University in the fall of 1904. Here she found her shorthand of double service, for by means of it she was able to take more exact and complete notes of the lectures. At the same time it enabled her to be independent, for during her entire college course she continued to hold her position as stenographer. Between her work and her studies she interspersed college social activities and became a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. With her time thus divided she still maintained a high rank in her studies, and upon graduation in 1908 was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

On the nineteenth of April, 1911, Miss Chandler became Mrs. Elmer C. Raymond. She died on the fifth anniversary of her marriage, after a brief illness of only one week. Her sudden death, due to rheumatism of the heart, was a great shock to her many friends and acquaintances, especially to those who had seen her in excellent health and spirits less than two weeks before at Klatsch. She is survived by her husband and three children: Chandler L., Priscilla, and baby Joseph; also her mother, three sisters, and a brother. The funeral was held at her late home, 7 Oakland Heights, Cliftondale, Mass., followed by services at Haverhill, N. H., where she was buried. She was a member of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, Boston, and of the Malden and Cliftondale College Clubs. A young woman of remarkable ability and of a most cheerful and optimistic temperament, Mrs. Raymond had a host of friends and will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

ELSIE HATCH-WADSWORTH, '08.

Among positions recently secured through the Women's Educational and Industrial Union by graduates of the College of Liberal Arts are the following:

'07. Mary Alice Hagarty, cataloguer, office of Mr. Robert G. Valentine, 75 State Street, Boston.

'79. Mr. Frank W. Whitney, for the past nineteen years principal of the Watertown High School, resigned his position last spring and ended his work at Watertown in June. Mr. Whitney is a native of Fitchburg. Before going to Watertown, he had been for ten years principal of the high school in Dover, N. H. On Wednesday, June 7, his former and present pupils, members of the faculty, and members of the school committee gave a farewell reception to Mr. Whitney. He will live in Wardsboro, Vt.

'83. Mrs. Edith Talbot Jackson has returned to her former home at 14 Shepard Street, Cambridge, from Minneapolis, Minn., where she has spent the past two years. Her daughter, Margaret T. Jackson, has resigned her position as Assistant Director of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts in order to do some work in the East.

EX-'88. Word has reached us that Mr. J. Alden Stockwell, of Stoneham, died May 30, 1916, leaving a widow. No further details have come to this office.

'93. Mr. T. Snowden Thomas is living at Middle Grove, N. Y. For twenty years Mr. Thomas was secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Watertown, N. Y. Recently he has held a similar position in Lynn, Mass.

'00. Dr. Henry Irving Twiss is a practising surgeon in Chicago, Ill. His address is: Suite 1700, 25 East Washington Street.
A daughter, Susanna Meredith, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Croxford Smith (Susan Meredith), at San Francisco, Cal., February 9, 1916.

Mr. Frederic R. Willard has been elected principal of the Watertown High School; he began his duties in September. He succeeds Mr. Frank W. Whitney, Boston University, class of '79, who recently resigned. After graduating from Boston University, Mr. Willard taught English and Civics in the Melrose High School; from Melrose he went to Salem, where for four years he was head of the English department in the high school. From Salem he went to Springfield, where he spent four years as head of the department of English in the Central High School.

After forty years of continuous work in the pulpit and in a college professorship, Dr. Daniel Dorchester, who from 1883 until 1895 was Professor of Political Economy and English Literature in Boston University, has retired from the active work of the ministry. His last charge, from which he resigned in April, was St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal Church, Flatbush, N. Y. After leaving Boston University, in 1895, Dr. Dorchester became pastor of Christ Church, Pittsburgh, the leading church of his denomination in that city; from Pittsburgh he went to a leading church in St. Louis. He will reside in Lexington, Mass., with his daughter, Mrs. Mary Dorchester Hatch, '90. Dr. Dorchester will lecture on political economy and will preach in churches desiring temporary services. While at Boston University he was in constant demand as a speaker at leading churches of greater Boston.

Dean William M. Warren represented Boston University at the annual meeting of the Association of College Officers at Tufts College on Wednesday and Thursday, May 17 and 18. The association is constituted essentially of the deans of the various institutions which compose the organization. With the exception of Princeton the colleges forming the association are all in New England.
The Manuscript Club observed its fifth anniversary on Tuesday, May 2, at its club rooms, Huntington Chambers. The exercises opened with the reading of the club's history by Mrs. Frederic H. Sidney, who described how about twenty-five pupils of Professor Dallas Lore Sharp, seeking to continue the work and friendship begun in his classes, organized the club. The club now has a membership of nearly one hundred. Professor Sharp addressed the club.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the New England Modern Language Association was held in Jacob Sleeper Hall on Saturday, May 13. Professor Samuel M. Waxman read his report as Secretary-Treasurer. The meeting as a whole was devoted to a discussion of ways and means of securing better teaching efficiency in modern language instruction. Mr. L. Raymond Talbot addressed the society on "Normal Courses in New England Colleges for the Training of Students to Become Teachers of Modern Languages." Professor James Geddes, Jr., was reelected librarian.

At the chapel service on Friday, May 12, Professor E. Charlton Black announced Miss Louise M. Bogan of the freshman class the winner of the Sharp prize for the current year. This prize was established by Professor Dallas Lore Sharp; it is awarded to the undergraduate of the College of Liberal Arts who contributes to the University Beacon the best poem during the college year. Miss Bogan's poem was entitled, "The Betrothal of King Cophetua."

At the chapel service on Monday, May 15, Professor Black announced the award of the Benton prizes for the current year. These prizes, of $35 and $25 respectively, are awarded for the best essays submitted by regular members of the senior and junior classes in the College of Liberal Arts on the work of any one of a specified list of musical composers. The first prize was awarded to Miss Grace E. Corbett; the second prize to Mr. Charles L. Barrows. The donor of the prizes, Josiah H. Benton, Esq., is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION.

The Trustees of the University have completed an arrangement with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology whereby the College of Business Administration will occupy the Walker Building on the corner of Clarendon and Boylston Streets. The work of alteration has begun, and it is planned to have the remodelled building ready for use at the opening of the college year, Wednesday, September 20.

Commenting editorially on the acquisition of the Walker Building by the College of Business Administration, the Transcript of Monday, August 7, says: "The educational importance of the University's occupation of this additional building appears from the plans under way for enlarging the whole scope and function of the College of Business Administration which is to take quarters in it. Hitherto this school had been giving only night courses. Although their popularity was excellent proof of their usefulness to meet a real demand of business life to-day, the evening sessions, necessarily attended only by part-time students, did not bring the College directly into the field where Harvard's Graduate School of Business has already made such advance. It will not quite do so now. Boston University will not require that its students of business should be college graduates, and it seems quite well, to fill the needs of all classes, that it should not. But the enrolment of regular day students certainly means important progress for the status of Boston University's College of Business Administration."

The Boston press of Tuesday, August 1, gave a generous amount of space to an address which Dean Lord had delivered on the previous evening before the members of the Pilgrim Publicity Association. Dean Lord took as his theme "South American Business Men in Boston." He said that most of the New England goods that go to South America are shipped through New York, and have become identified with New York, but that the advertising of Boston merchants in publications circulating in South America was making itself felt and that the future promises results of great importance. He called attention to the fact that about twenty-five Boston firms are taking advantage of the offer of the Department of Spanish of the College of Business Administration to translate free of charge Spanish letters received by these firms from their customers in Latin American countries. As many as eight such letters have been received at the University in a single day. The College of Business Administration is inserting advertisements in the newspapers of South America and Cuba. As a result of this advertising, young men from Cuba, Venezuela, Argentina, Colombia, and Mexico will take courses in the College of Business Administration during the coming year.

As a specimen of the advertisements of the University in South American papers, we copy the following from the July issue of Revista del Mundo:
