We've added 80,000

Telephone Girls

in the last year

We're working hard to give you more and better telephone service than ever before.

In the last year, we have added 54,000 telephone operators; also 26,000 service representatives, secretaries, clerks, stenographers, typists and manufacturing employees.

These are just the figures for women. We have also increased our employees by 70,000 men — most of them war veterans.

Yet in spite of record figures on employment, manufacturing and installations, we are greatly concerned that there are still more than 2,000,000 people waiting for telephone service and many who are not getting the kind of service they want.

We want you to know that we are doing our level best to catch up with every telephone need of everybody — everywhere.
College of Physical Education
For Women, Sargent

During the week of February 17 Dean Makechnie met Sargent alumnae groups in Baltimore, February 19, New York, February 20, and Philadelphia, February 21.

At each meeting the Dean outlined plans currently developed for the enriching of our Physical Education major and they were most enthusiastically received. Without exception expressions of good will were generously given by alumnae, and pledges of their support were made.

At the moment the alumnae are actively engaged in the raising of funds to erect an Alumnae Recreation House at Boston University Sargent Camp in Peterborough, New Hampshire. Boston University has agreed to match $2,500 to be raised by the alumnae for this project. To date $1,600 have been raised by graduates. This, added to the $2,500 pledge of the University, means that there is presently at hand $4,100. Using our own camp timber, $5,000 will erect a minimum building. Additional gifts will make possible refinements to this building.

The new building will serve many purposes. It will be a gathering place for alumnae reunions. Its large auditorium will be the scene of many entertainments and dances. Its fourteen rooms will be sleeping quarters for students taking Professional Institutes. Its winter-proof construction will make it an ideal head-quarter for the soon to be developed winter sports program of the college.

The alumnae meetings served to focus the attention of the alumnae on the fact that graduates of the College of Physical Education for Women, Sargent are serving in many different professional capacities as physical educators and physical therapists, recreation leaders and teachers of health, and that the influence of the college spreads geographically throughout the entire land. We, at the college, administration and faculty, are firm in the conviction that the service of the University and the college to students continue beyond Commencement Day. Thus, it is a pleasure always for the Dean to meet alumnae groups both the all-University groups and the Sargent groups and especially to join with the alumnae in such projects as the Recreation House which give us further facilities to serve our students, our alumnae and the profession.

Bridgeport, Connecticut

Boston University alumni of Bridgeport held a dinner meeting at the Fairfield Inn, Fairfield, Connecticut, on Tuesday evening, February 18, at 7:30 p.m. After dinner President Thorsten Wahlberg introduced Toastmaster Joseph Micarelli. The speaker of the evening, Professor John C. Scammell, of Boston University, brought greetings from President Marsh. Professor Scammell spoke on “Today and Tomorrow.”

Assistant Football Coach, John J. Kelleher spoke briefly and showed motion pictures of the 1946 Boston University - Brown football game.

Judge Samuel Friedman, member of the local group, gave recollections of Boston University when he entered Law School.

An informal evening meeting of the Bridgeport Club was also held on March 27, at the College Club on Courtland Street at 8:00 p.m.

Manchester, New Hampshire

Plans are under way to form a Boston University Club of Manchester. Temporary plans are going forward for a meeting of this group to be held in conjunction with the Concord, New Hampshire, group. Alumni interested in this project are invited to contact the Boston University Alumni Office, 811 Boylston Street, Boston.

School of Nursing Alumni Association

Alumnae of the Boston University Nursing Program are joining together with alumnae of the new School of Nursing located at 160 Beacon Street, Boston, to form a School of Nursing Alumnae Association. Miss Garragan, of the School of Nursing, would be glad to hear from all alumnae who would be interested in this project.

Portland, Maine

A meeting concerned with the organization of the new Boston University Club of Portland, Maine, will be held on April 21. Miss Gertrude Prinn, temporary chairman of the Portland group presided. Mr. Warren S. Freeman gave the group an up-to-date account of the many changes that have taken place at Boston University.

Concord, New Hampshire

Concord alumni held a meeting of formal organization on the evening of March 14, at the Concord Public Library. The committee in charge of this meeting included Mr. Woodrow Murphy, temporary chairman of the Concord group, Miss Bertha Rolfe, Miss Alice Bundy, and Mrs. Richard Hoyt. The program included a talk by Mr. Warren S. Freeman.

Hartford, Connecticut

The initial meeting of the current season of the Boston University group of Hartford was held at the University Club, Hartford on April 14. The program of the evening included the showing of the film “Let’s Go To Boston University, Thirty Minutes of University Life,” and a talk by Coach Aldo “Buff” Donelli, new head coach of football. Committee members in charge of the evening were: Mr. Allan Taylor, Mr. Edward Dik, Mr. Russell Lynch, Mr. Paul Boynton, and Mr. Harvey Fuller.

New Haven, Connecticut

The Boston University Club of New Haven held a dinner meeting on the evening of April 16. Dean Elwood Hetrick of the Boston University Law School was the speaker of the evening. Mr. John A. Maitland, President of the New Haven Club, presided.

Bostonia
WE are particularly proud of our cover this month not only because of its excellence as a portrait of the President of Boston University, Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, but also because it displays to the alumni for the first time the new Boston University Coat of Arms.

As President Marsh pointed out in his Founders' Day address, the University has for some time felt the need of such an emblem. Frequently in our program of extracurricular activities there are requests for some adornment representative of the University which will add the finishing touch to a dance program or to an announcement of some function.

In the past the University seal has been used for this purpose, but, as Doctor Marsh indicated in his address, use of the seal should be limited to official University business. Thus at the President's suggestion Professor Robert E. Moody of the College of Liberal Arts was given the task of discovering, if possible, the Arms of the Founders; but Arms for some of them were not discoverable.

Many discussions between Doctor Marsh, Professor Moody, and experts in the field of heraldry ensued resulting finally in a design as authentically connected with the background of Boston University as it was technically perfect in the science and art of heraldry.

The occasion upon which the announcement of this newest of Boston University traditions was made was Founders' Day, one of the most important events in the University calendar. This year's Founders' Day was highlighted by the laying of the corner stone of the new Boston University Science Laboratories Building which will be located on the corner of Granby Street and Commonwealth Avenue on the new Campus.
HARRY KAUFMAN STONE, graduate of Boston University with the degrees of Bachelor of Laws and Master of Laws;
Judge of the Probate Court of Plymouth County; prominently identified with commercial and industrial enterprises; you are so unalloyedly loyal to your University, and so civic-minded in a materialistic age, that it is with pleasure that, on the recommendation of the Boston University Council, and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Trustees of the University acting under the Statutes of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, I confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, and admit you to all the honors, privileges and responsibilities thereto appertaining.

ROBERT FISKE BRADFORD, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; by profession a lawyer; direct descendant of William Bradford, the truly great Governor of the Pilgrim Colony that settled at Plymouth, Massachusetts, three hundred twenty-six years ago, and by virtue thereof, the heir of a vast heritage of the aristocracy of character and the riches of unimpeachable integrity and unblemished service to mankind, and finding the evidence of your worthiness of such a heritage in your own character and in your manifest desire to serve your own day and generation, thus leaving to your posterity an unsullied name and a record of honest service — a forward look far more important than any backward look can be — I have pleasure, on the recommendation of the Boston University Council, and by virtue of the authority vested
in me by the Trustees of the University acting under the Statutes of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, and admit you to all the honors, privileges and responsibilities
thereto appertaining.

LUCY WANG, President of Hwa Nan College, Foochow, China, descendant of a long line of Chinese scholars and statesmen, you have made your College so academically respectable that credits of its students are recognized by the best colleges and universities in the United States; when Foochow was threatened by the Japanese in World War II, you led your faculty and students, with as much equipment as could be carried, to the walled city of Yenping in the interior country, where you personally supervised the building of wooden barracks to house your College, and carried on your college work in the midst of intermittent bombings. When you with your brave Chinese women moved back to Foochow to find only bare walls where once had stood your beautiful stone buildings, you started in to rebuild the physical plant and to enhance and extend your institution's distinguished service to the womanhood of China. It is therefore with appropriateness that on the recommendation of the Boston University Council, and by virtue of the authority vested
in me by the Trustees of the University acting under the Statutes of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, I confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities, and admit you to all the honors, privileges and responsibilities thereto appertaining.
The Meaning and Message of Boston University's ARMS

(Boston University Founders' Day Address, March 13, 1947)

By President Daniel L. Marsh

SHORTLY AFTER I became President of Boston University, now more than twenty-one years ago, a student organization asked permission to use the Boston University seal as an adornment upon a dance program. William M. Warren, the then Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and son of the first President of the University, was in my office at the time. I asked him what the practice of the University was in such matters. He replied that such use of the seal was common, but that he did not regard it as proper. He opined that the use of the seal of the University should be restricted to official and legal documents. He went on to say that Boston University was unfortunate in not having a coat of arms, as have many of the older institutions. He pointed out that the Harvard seal, for instance, is limited to official usage, but that Harvard has a coat of arms which is the symbol of the University for all kinds of secular use and decorative purposes.

The idea expressed in that conversation has lain in my mind all these years. It finally germinated into a resolve to get for Boston University a symbol which the trustees and faculty, students and alumni might use for secular decorative purposes, and which they would come to cherish as an heraldic device symbolizing the University wherever displayed. A few months ago I asked Robert E. Moody, Professor of American History, whether he could discover for me the coats of arms of our three Founders (Claflin, Rich, and Sleeper), and of our first President, Warren. I had in mind that we might resort to marshalling or quartering coat armor, that is arrange the four arms on one shield, a procedure not unknown in heraldry. Professor Moody was not able to secure authentic arms of all four, but in his quest he consulted two of the most distinguished local authorities on heraldry, Mr. Robert Dickson Weston and Dr. Harold Bowditch. These gentlemen are both members of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society's Committee on Heraldry. They recommended the designing of a brand-new coat of arms for the University. We thereupon asked these good gentlemen to design a coat of arms which would reflect four significant inheritances, to-wit: First, the University's colors, scarlet and white; second, the floriated cross, which is a prominent feature in the official seal of the University; third, let it show some reminiscent connection with the town of Boston, England, of which our city is a descendant, and fourth, with Oxford University, of which our University is a descendant. I also stipulated that the three dynamic purposive words of our Charter should be used in connection with our coat of arms. You will recall that our Charter says that the purpose of Boston University is to promote virtue and piety, and learning in the liberal and useful arts and sciences. Meantime, I wrote to Dr. John E. Darlow, a prominent physician of Boston, England, and also President of the Rotary Club, asking him for a picture of the crowns used on the arms of the Corporation of Boston, England. He had the arms painted for me in true colors, and sent the painting by air mail. The black shield bears three golden ducal coronets. The crest is a golden ram on a woolpack, suggestive of Boston's important wool market. The supporters are two mermaids, wearing golden ducal crowns, hinting at the city’s importance as a seaport.

It was not difficult to find, in the Athenaeum Library, a picture and description of the Oxford University arms — blue shield bearing an open book garnished with gold, with three golden crowns, two above the book and one below. Some pictures show the open book bearing the words: "In principio erat verbum, et verbum erat apud dei," while others show the motto to be: "Dominus illuminatio mea." These words — "The Lord is my light" — were used by the first President of Boston University as the text of his first Baccalaureate Sermon, a subtle and beautiful recognition of the academic heritage which he so deeply cherished.

With all this material before them, Mr. Weston and Dr. Bowditch sketched their idea of an appropriate coat of arms for Boston University. Mr. Edouard Sandoz did the final drawing in color. We are appreciative of the service rendered us by all these good friends, every one of whom is an authority in the field of heraldry. The arms are described in heraldic terms as: argent, a cross fleury Gules, the three crowns of old Boston in pale, and encircling the cross, Or. This means: a silver or white shield bearing a floriated cross in red (in the case of Boston University, scarlet), the three gold or yellow crowns of old Boston arranged vertically down the shield and encircling the cross.

I then presented to the Executive Committee of the Trustees of Boston University the suggested coat of arms. They unanimously voted approval of the idea, recommending to the Trustees that it be adopted.

This Coat of Arms business is a science, under the name of heraldry, with a jargon of its own — recognized laws and established language. One authority declares that "a knowledge of heraldry has been at all times reckoned among the accomplishments of a gentleman, and considered to form at least a graceful, if not a useful, adjunct in every system of liberal education." It is a science of symbols, originally expressive of some peculiar personal characteristic or commemorative of some daring exploit or dazzling episode. These symbols depicted on the shield of a soldier made it possible for him to be distinguished from his fellows on the field of battle. At first the symbols were personal, but in time they became hereditary. Heraldry is so interwoven with architecture and history that it becomes an aid in interpreting both. In the writings of English poets, both ancient and modern, there are frequent allusions to the badges and armorial bearings of royal and noble families, — allusions that are practically meaningless to one who knows nothing about heraldry.

The custom of adorning the habiliments of warriors with various significant devices dates back to ancient times. It is possible that it obtained among the Israelites, as may be inferred from the historical statement in Numbers II. 1, 2: "And Jehovah spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying, The children of Israel shall encamp every man by his own standard, with the ensigns of their fathers' houses: over against the tent of meeting shall they encamp round about." It was also a practice in vogue among the ancient Greeks and Romans. It received its greatest impetus, however, in the Middle Ages, particularly in the crusades, and came to its romantic culmination in the days when knighthood was in flower.

Let me interpret now briefly the various features of the Boston University arms.

The Colors, first. The shield — the escutcheon or field on which are placed the bearings — is white, and the cross that spans it is scarlet. These colors are used because scarlet and white are the official colors of Boston University. There is a philosophy of colors. Scarlet is to my mind the most beautiful of all the various hues of red. It is the color of arterial blood, — blood oxygenated, and free of impurities. It is a bright brilliant red of orange tinge, — orange, being flame colored, symbolizes the lamp of knowledge and also of benevolence. The red of love and courage and passion plus the tinge of orange give us the scarlet of the Feast of Martyrs — Boston University's color. Scarlet represents blood, and blood represents fire, and blood and fire are life; they hold in their tremendous grasp the secret of this awful thing that lives and breathes, and would be God, if it could.

White, our other color, is the harmonious blending of all the hues and colors and beauties of light. White without any admixture of darkness sets forth the pure absolute triumph of light. The writer of the Apocalypse tells us that the redeemed are "arrayed in white robes," and then as though he were afraid we might not understand his symbolism, he hastens on to say that the white robes are the righteous acts of the saints. It is no fictitious righteousness. It is the result of work and sacrifice: we are told that they themselves "have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

So Boston University aims at character that is not only spotless, but also complete — the combination of all virtues, the balancing of all excellences, a display of all the beauties of grace.

THE CROSS is the second conspicuous feature on Boston University's arms. It is copied from the seal of the University. The seal was designed by President William Fairfield Warren. He made the Holy Cross, floriated, span the entire circle of the seal from rim to rim, — a symbol of the Christian heritage and aims of the Founders.

No ordinary is of so frequent occurrence on armorial bearings as the cross. The crusades were so called because the cross was the most prominent symbol on the banners and shields of the crusaders. The crusades were a series of strange, wild, fanatical campaigns undertaken by the Christians of Western Europe from 1096 to 1291. The avowed purpose was to wrest the Holy Land from the Mohammedans. The rallying cry was: Rescue the Holy Sepulchre from the Infidel. The crusades were promoted largely by the Church in a day when the mind of otherworldliness prevailed. Indulgences — the remission of sins in advance — were sold in order to get money to carry on the crusades. Millions of men went on horseback and on foot, carrying their banners and their shields with their armorial bearings, the most prominent adornment of which was always the cross.

These cross-bearing campaigns were picturesque and romantic. They were costly both in treasure and in life. They did not succeed in their avowed purpose of taking the Holy Land from the Mohammedans. But they did have one great beneficial result to mankind. They brought the learning of the East to the West. It was as though the marching tread of crusaders awakened Western Europe out of its intellectual sleep. It was as though the crusaders had lighted torches in the Holy Land which they carried back to their homes in Western Europe and the British Isles, and from these torches others were lighted until the whole land was aflame with a new light which banished the darkness of the Middle Ages.

The crusades were a wonderful act in the great drama of human life. Their summits of daring and devotion were as high as their abysses of shame were deep. They were inspired partly by other worldly motives of buying salvation for a pittance, and partly by worldly motives of gaining riches and acquiring lands. But, all in all, there was something noble in millions of men following "the way of the Holy Sepulchre" to extend the Kingdom of God upon earth, and in quest of eternal reward for themselves. They wore the cross as a badge, and ever since then the term crusade has been given to any campaign undertaken in their spirit of daring or devotion.

On a family coat of arms with which I am personally quite familiar, there are three crosses, and underneath is the motto: "Fidei Coticula Crucis," which, being translated, is "The cross is the touchstone of faith."

The Cross is the most wonderful subject that ever appealed to the intellect, the conscience and the imagination of mankind. I do not refer to the Roman gallows; I mean rather the "Cross" which was fashioned in eternity, and whose shadow falls on the disk of the whole scheme of things. This Cross condemns a spirit of self-righteousness, even though its wings be crimson-dyed with hues of Paradise. It exalts sacrifice for others. As one life-cell is lost that another may live and grow; as the blossom is sacrificed for the coming fruit; as the mountains are made barren to enrich the valleys; as the soldier gives himself for a principle, a reformer for a cause, and a mother for her child, so the Cross symbolizes in solemn isolation the great truth that we also ought to lay down our lives for others, — as a sacrifice, a devotion, a consecration.

THE CROWNS are the third armorial bearing to be noted. They connect Boston University both with the town of Boston, England, and also with the University of Oxford. The crown has not always been a regal sign. The crown — or coronet, which is a crown of lesser dignity — was originally a wreath of grass or flowers placed upon a general's brow as reward for victory in a battle; or it was a wreath of oak or laurel leaves placed upon the brow of a victorious athlete. In time it came to be a reward for any achievement or distinguished service. The golden ducal crowns on the escutcheon of Boston, England, were not a sign of royalty, but rather a reward for appreciated service. So also the crowns on Boston University's arms have no regal significance: They are merely an heraldic symbol of our inheritance.

The reason why we display a connection on our arms with the first Boston is obvious. We are Bostonians.
University, taking our name from the City which is our home, albeit we are neither politically controlled nor tax-supported. We are proud of this City, this "Athens of America," the educational capital of this continent, with its numerous historic and literary shrines and its many cultural institutions, and with such a distinct lure and charm that merely to live in it is an education to anyone possessed of sufficient intellectual curiosity to pay attention to his environment.

Our fair city of Boston takes its name from Boston, England, because so many of the settlers of our Boston came from the older Boston and its vicinity. The name "Boston" is a contraction of "Botolph's Town." It was derived from a Saxon monk by the name of Saint Botulph. A contemporary spoke of him as "being well-exercised in virtue and holiness... He was beloved by all, for he was free from arrogance, being humble, mild and affable in all things. He was a good teacher. In the year 654, he founded a monastery in the water meadow where the River Witham flows into the sea, and as a town developed around his monastery, it was called Saint Botulph's Town, which through long usage became contracted into Saint Botowns and then into Botowns, and finally into Boston. (Americans tend to mispronounce the Saint's name, making the "o" of the first syllable long, and putting a sharp accent on the second syllable. As a matter of fact, the accent should be on the first syllable, and the "o" should be short, as in "bottle." Thus the name is pronounced Saint Bôf'-off.)

This Old Boston is the chief seaport of Lincolnshire, and has for centuries been the principal wool market of England. From twenty-five thousand to fifty thousand sheep have changed hands on a single day of its sheep market. It has been the recipient of all the vicissitudes of English history — Danish invasion, Norman conquest, floods, earthquakes, and plagues.

The central point in Boston, England, is the great Gothic Church that bears the honored name of Saint Botolph. It dates from the time of the Norman Conquest, prior to 1090. The present edifice, containing stones of the original Norman structure, was built some two hundred years later. The tower was finished about 1420. The tower of Saint Botolph's Church, two hundred ninety feet high, affectionately known as the "Boston Stump," forms a landmark for forty miles "per mare et per terram" ("by sea and by land" — the motto on the city's coat of arms). It is a surpassingly beautiful example of perpendicular Gothic architecture. The tower was restored in 1931 with money given by citizens of Boston, Massachusetts. Walter R. Whiting, a Trustee of Boston University, personally carried the money from Boston to Boston, and presented it to the Archbishop of Canterbury at the altar of Saint Botolph's Church.

One of the pastors of Saint Botolph's Church in the period of the Puritan Reformation was Rev. John Cotton. He was a graduate of Emanuel College in Cambridge University, and was also head lecturer, dean and catechist. His strength of judgment and extent of reading made him admired by the most eminent men in the University. He later became a minister of Saint Botolph's Church in Boston, England, where he continued for about twenty years, during which time the Church was filled with young students from Germany and Holland as well as from Cambridge University. A biographer says that "his distinguished piety and extensive usefulness having sufficiently exposed him to the malice of the prelates, letters missive were out against him from the infamous high Commission Court." He knew that if he appeared there, imprisonment and probably murder would be his doom. He asked a Lord Dorset to intercede for him, but the Archbishop of Canterbury rendered his intercessions ineffectual. Lord Dorset then told Mr. Cotton "that if he had been guilty of drunkenness, uncleanness, or any such lesser fault, he could have obtained his pardon; but as he was guilty of puritanism and non-conformity, the crime was unpardonable; and therefore he advised him to flee for his safety." It was then that John Cotton came to Boston, Massachusetts, to become the minister of the first church here.

It is our plan and purpose to reproduce at the center of Boston University's new campus a replica of the old "Boston Stump." I have in my office a stone from the tower of Saint Botolph's Church — one of the stones dating back to the period of the Norman Conquest — which was given me by Canon A. M. Cook, until recently the Vicar of Saint Botolph's Church. Upon this stone the corner stone of our tower will rest. The grille-work over the main entrance to our new Charles Hayden Memorial bears a model of that tower, and every succeeding building to be constructed will have in its architecture somewhere a model of the old "Boston Stump." As through the portals of John Cotton's Church in Boston, England, Puritan leaders passed in and out, — and passed on to become the dominant element in the founding of our Boston, — so also through

FOUNDBER'S DAY, MARCH 13, 1947

One of the highlights of this year's Founders' Day program was the laying of the corner stone for the new Science Laboratories Building now under construction on the Charles River campus. The corner stone was set on a foundation stone of marble, a block which was quarried in Palestine and inscribed as follows: "This stone — a replica of the corner stone of Weizmann Research Center, Rehovot, Palestine — was quarried from Judean hills round about Jerusalem as a special gift to Boston University."

Placed upon the foundation stone was a box containing the following: a Bible, a gift of the Massachusetts Bible Society; a general catalogue of Boston University; a University song book; the booklet, "Traditions of Boston University;" the latest annual reports of Boston University; a prospectus of the new campus; copies of several issues of BOSTONIA; copies of the President's Founders' Day Address dealing with the history of Boston University; copies of the morning's Boston newspapers; a copy of the week's Boston University News; the Founders' Day program; the meaning and message of the Boston University hymn; Bell Benefactor of Mankind — biographical study of Alexander Graham Bell, showing his connection with Boston University when he invented the telephone.
the doors of Boston University, students will enter to learn and go out to serve.

THE CROWNS ALSO connect us with Oxford University, which dates its beginning from the intellectual awakening which came with the crusades. Oxford was a place where cattle crossed the river, hence an ox ford. The Saxons built a mound of defense where the present town of Oxford is. Dazzling episodes of British history have taken place here, but its fame rests upon the fact that eager students flocked to the mean and filthy lanes of the medieval town which Oxford was in those days, to huddle together in bare lodging-houses in order that they might cluster round great teachers. It was a turbulent life, as historian Green would say, but "the turbulence and stir was a stir and turbulence of life." Men like Roger Bacon, Erasmus, Colet, Thomas More, and later Wyclif and Latimer and Ridley made it forever famous as a great seat of learning.

In the early years of the eighteenth century, a young fellow by the name of John Wesley studied at Oxford. He was for six years scholar of Christ Church College, nineteen years Fellow of Lincoln College, teacher in Philosophy, lecturer in Greek language and literature, moderator of debates, preacher to the University, and director of the "Holy Club" for New Testament study. One summer when I was lecturing at Oxford University, I had a stimulating conversation with a group of English historians. One remarked that John Wesley was the greatest Englishman of the eighteenth century.
Another historian replied: "Why do you limit him to the eighteenth century? I would say that, measured in terms of his influence for good, John Wesley was the greatest Englishman of all the centuries."

The epochal religious revival of which John Wesley was the prime mover is vital round the world, even to this day. Wesley sent young Francis Asbury as a missionary to America. Asbury, the Apostle of the Long Road, proved to be one of the most dynamic and constructive leaders of modern history. Upon the close of the American Revolution, Wesley sent Dr. Thomas Coke, another Oxford graduate, to America to assist Asbury in the supervision of the Church on this continent. In 1784, these two men led their followers in organizing the Methodist Episcopal Church, the first church in America to be organized on national lines, and, measured in terms of its total strength — adherents as well as communicant members — the largest church on the continent today. One of the more important achievements of that organizing Conference of 1784 was the founding of a college which they named for Bishops Coke and Asbury, calling it Cokesbury College, at Abingdon, Maryland, modeled on Jesus College, Oxford.

A young man by the name of Abel Bliss was educated at Cokesbury College. He later became a Massachusetts Senator, and in 1824, became one of the original incorporators of Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, Massachusetts, and five years later, of Wesleyan University at Middletown, Connecticut.
Officers and graduates of these two institutions, together with other followers of Wesley of Oxford, found in 1839, a theological school which, thirty years later, became the Boston University School of Theology. It is this unbroken line that prompted President Warren to declare that no other fully organized American university has a pedigree leading back so directly and vitally to the ancient University of Oxford as has Boston University. Hence, since the Oxford University coat of arms bears three crowns, it is appropriate that we should have three crowns upon our arms, indicating our known line of academic descent.

I have now tried to outline for you the significance of the cross and the crowns as armorial bearings on our escutcheon. Their reciprocal relationship was once expressed in an exalted passage by James I.
Vance. Although he had something entirely different in mind, yet I would like to appropriate his words for the cross and crown on our coat of arms:
"The symbol of the Gospel is a cross; but not a cross by itself; not a lone, bare, gaunt, naked cross.
The symbol of the Gospel is a crown; but not a crown by itself; not a proud, cold, despotic, selfish, pitiless crown. The symbol of the Gospel is a cross and a crown; a cross lying in a crown; a crown growing around a cross; a cross haloed by a crown;
a crown won by a cross."

THE THREE DYNAMIC words taken from the Charter of Boston University are learning, virtue, piety. These are the things for which we of Boston University are crusaders. The raison d'etre of Boston University is the promotion in the most effectual way of virtue and piety, and learning in the languages and the liberal and useful arts and sciences.

We are crusaders for a liberal AND a useful education. We sponsor a scholarship whose results are not valued for their own sake, nor for the sake of their utility to the individual, but for the sake of their service to the community, — a scholarship whose devotees regard themselves as custodians of a sacred trust for the benefit of the nation and the whole wide world. The utilitarian idea of education taken alone degenerates into selfishness. The education-for-its-own-sake idea taken alone degenerates into aloofness from life. There must be a balance and a blending of the two values. We aim at an education that makes a living and that makes life worth living.

We crusade for the promotion of virtue,—for moral excellence, courage, loyalty, honesty, integrity; for goodness that is victorious through trial, temptation and conflict; for honesty tried and proved, especially in those things which go beyond the reach of legal requirements; for integrity which denotes more than superficial and convenient honesty; for the life that "shines serene in the darkness and dread of night."

We are crusaders for the promotion of piety. Piety is a controlling reverence toward God. It is religious devoutness, and includes filial honor and loyalty to parents, superiors and country. We are crusaders for truth, but always in a spirit of affirmation rather than of negation, of reverence rather than irreverence. We will be careful of far more than the instinctive worship of an awe-struck hour. We must keep ourselves sensitive to life's tragic grandeur.

In crusading for the promotion of learning and virtue and piety, we will give the "utmost for the highest"; we will be "loyal to the royal within," for we know that "the uncommon life is the child of the common day lived in an uncommon way."

Thus you have the meaning and the message of Boston University's armorial bearings. I have tried to summarize their significance in a new stanza for the Boston University Hymn:

How meaningful thy coat of arms—
The shield with cross and crown—
Connecting us with Oxford's charms
And old Saint Botolph's town.

O Boston University,
O Alma Mater fair:
Crusading for true piety,
Thine arms we'll proudly wear.

Fund Kick-Off Dinner

Held on March 20

More than 130 class agents gathered for their annual Kick-Off Dinner on March 20 at the Hotel Statler in Boston at which time plans for the 1947 Fund Drive were announced, and agents were briefed in their duties as solicitors and organizers of this year's Alumni Fund Roll Call.

The main speaker of the evening was President Daniel L. Marsh who pointed out to the group the importance of alumni contributions to the over-all plans of the University. Other speakers were Wesley L. Slade, CLA'25, Chairman of the 1947 Alumni Fund Roll Call, and Warren S. Freeman, Executive Alumni Secretary. Toastmaster at the dinner, which was attended by several of the deans, was Fred J. Johnson, Law'17.

It was announced at this initial affair of the 1947 Alumni Fund Roll Call that in each town throughout the United States, where Boston University alumni are actively organized, an area chairman has been named to lead his members in the fund program under the direction of Alumni Headquarters in Boston. Of the $250,000 pledged by the graduates for a three-year period, $80,000 was raised in 1945, and $50,000 of last year's quota was raised during the year. This leaves $120,000 to be raised in 1947.
The School of Theology, Past and Future

The School of Theology has passed through three distinct stages and is now about to enter upon a fourth. The first may be described as preliminary; during it the School had no permanent home. It was formally established in 1839, and located at Newbury, Vermont, for a short time and at Concord, New Hampshire, for twenty years (1847-1867). But these were only temporary abodes, professedly such, way-stations on the road to Boston, its ultimate objective from the beginning.

The second period extended from its removal to Boston in 1867 to 1911, when L. J. Birney became its Dean. Here after being housed for three years at 23 Pinckney Street and for 16 years at 36 Bromfield Street, it found a more abiding home at 72 Mt. Vernon Street. During this period it became the first department of Boston University and attained a high reputation for scholarship through eminent teachers as Henry C. Sheldon, Hinckley J. Mitchell, Borden P. Bowne, Dean Latimer, and President Warren.

The third period in its history dates from 1911 down to the present. In it three important developments may be noted: the raising of the requirements for admission to college graduation, the addition of two dormitories and a beautiful new chapel to its building plant, and a considerable increase in the number of its students.

Such is the School of Theology as it has come down to us from the past and as it now faces a new and challenging future. It maintains unimpaired the ideal it inherited: high standards of scholarship, responsiveness to the changing thought and life of the day, loyalty to the historic Wesleyan movements, and the union of open-mindedness with a profound religious earnestness. But its material equipment, aside from the new chapel, has not improved in quality during the past sixty years; rather has it deteriorated. Its great need at present is a new home more in keeping with its recognized standing in the church and in the University.

For seventy-six years the School has been a part of the University, and during this time has from the material point of view fared as well, if not better, than most of the other departments. But a new Boston University is now in the making. A new era in its history is being inaugurated. And if the School of Theology, is to fit into this new era and make its proper contribution to the life of the University, if it is to avail itself of the immense advantages of its University connections, it must have a different location and a new building or buildings. This change seems essential, if the School is to have the commanding future we expect of it. The most urgent task, therefore, now confronting the alumni is to raise the additional funds needed for this purpose. And this, according to a recent ruling of the Methodist Board of Education, must be done by January 1, 1948.

ALBERT C. KNUDSON, Dean Emeritus

Dean Muelder

The Dean of the School of Theology

A theolog's eye view

Walter G. Muelder was welcomed to the family of Boston University School of Theology with a genuine enthusiasm on the part of the students. At first we stood in awe at his intellectual vigor and versatility, but we were soon drawn by the warm friendliness with which he sought to lead us to new insights and loftier perspective. The Dean was early acclaimed to be a prophet of distinction by the men studying under him in the field of Social Ethics. And many another student began to realize an insistent desire for extended studies with this professor who lectured with an animation and persuasiveness that drew some men to his point of view, and all men to a respect for his position.

As an administrator we find the Dean both sensitive to the needs of the student and aware of the need for close student-faculty cooperation. Problems of curriculum and class schedules are handled with ease and democracy. Questions raised by the student body on matters of administration or discipline are resolved with fairness and a keen comprehension of the implications not only for the School of Theology but for Boston University as a whole.

Primarily, however, the students are deeply conscious that our Dean Muelder is a warm, friendly, and able counselor. When approached by one in need of counsel on spiritual, domestic, academic, or parish problems the Dean seems able to share the load and help lift things. The student therefore finds his situation clarified and his spirit strengthened.

A consistent emphasis seen in the Dean's chapel talks suggests the source of the splendid inner dynamic that is his: "Without sustained and rigorous spiritual discipline in the life of prayer the soul of a minister cannot grow strong." Nor in his message without a distinctive social power. We find in him that rare combination of mystical sensibility and courageous social vision, and we know that here is a great man who will lead us in our quest for great religion.

The student body is confident that our School of Theology under the leadership of Dean Walter G. Muelder will grow in strength and become a mighty influence in the life of American Christendom.

GILBERT ZIMMERMAN, T'47

BOSTONIA
Report from the Dean

Ever since President Marsh invited me to leave the sunny clime of Southern California and assume the leadership of the School of Theology as Dean I have had a magnificent experience. It has been heartening to receive letters from hundreds of you congratulating me on the new undertaking. It has been thrilling to have former professors and new colleagues undergird me with scholarly and friendly support. It has been awesome to stand in the chancel of Robinson Chapel where Knudson and the others have preached and prayed. It has been deeply moving to feel the new responsiveness of students in their search for new directions. All in all, a floodtide of spiritual power has lifted us, faculty and students, to new religious and academic heights.

In eighteen months Boston University School of Theology has accomplished many things. First, we have made a thorough analysis of the modern minister’s task and have reconstructed our whole curriculum on a functional basis to meet the challenge of the task. Our new core curriculum has already aroused widespread attention. Second, we have strengthened and expanded our work in Pastoral Counseling and Clinical Training to a place where we are leading in the seminary world. Third, we have reorganized and expanded our offerings in Religious Education to such an extent that it is now one of the most popular departments. Fourth, we have reorganized and enriched the instruction in World Missions and in Christian International Relations. We have also enlarged the staff. Fifth, we have revitalized and enlarged our curriculum in Social Ethics to meet the challenge of the post-war period. Sixth, we have established our field work program on a basis which makes it more functional and which improves the supervision as never before. Seventh, along with the rest of the University we have raised salaries. Eighth, we have set up the best testing program and orientation week for Juniors that we know about. Ninth, we have improved the tone of our class work and have stiffened our academic requirements while reducing the course load of students per week. Tenth, we have integrated our graduate study program more thoroughly with that of the Graduate School.

On the basis of these accomplishments we report to you that the School of Theology has a profound Christian message, fine morale, and a great program. What we now need are better facilities. In this issue of BOSTONIA you will meet Dr. William H. Stewart, the Director of the Campaign for funds for the new building. The faculty stands united with the President of the University in the drive for funds which will place the School of Theology at the center of the new campus. There is great urgency in this undertaking. Indeed, faculty, students, and alumni together stand at a significant turning point in the life of the institution. Our whole future depends upon the way all of us rise to the challenge of this Campaign.

WALTER G. MUELLER

Dr. William H. Stewart

Dr. William H. Stewart, recently appointed director of the financial campaign for the School of Theology, is a minister of the New York East Conference of the Methodist Church. Born in Cambridge, Ohio, he attended Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, graduating with an A.B. degree in 1920. The following year he served as older boys’ secretary for the Young Men’s Christian Association, Toledo, Ohio. Entering the School of Theology in September, 1921, he was awarded the S.T.B. degree three years later in 1924. That spring he entered the Conference of which he is still a member. After serving churches in Corona, and Queens Village, Borough of Queens, New York City, and in Baldwin and Mount Vernon, New York, he was appointed Superintendent of the Brooklyn South District. For the past three years, he has been the pastor of the Saint Mark’s Methodist Church, Rockville Centre, Long Island, a church of more than two thousand members, considered one of the largest and most influential Protestant churches on Long Island. In his letter of acceptance to President Marsh, he said, "Because of my convictions, I accept your invitation to become campaign director for the School of Theology. I believe there is no more important task confronting us as a nation than the training of leaders for the spiritual reconstruction of the World. I believe, also, that no school in America is in a position to offer more in this regard than Boston University School of Theology. By both heritage and tradition it is foremost in its service to the church. We must make it an even greater school."
Faced with the challenge of a conditional offer of a third of a million dollars, provided the University is able to raise the remaining two thirds by January 1st, 1948, the Boston University School of Theology on March 1st launched a financial campaign which in the aggregate will total the one million dollars. The funds are to be used to erect the School of Theology building on Boston University’s new campus.

The drive for $666,666.66 is to be directed by a School of Theology alumnus, Dr. William H. Stewart, S.T.B. ’24. Offices have been set up in the School of Theology building, 72 Mount Vernon Street, Boston 8, Massachusetts. The campaign will be carried on throughout the country. Regional campaign committees are now being set up in various sections.

Acknowledging the task of providing leaders for the Church of Tomorrow, and realizing the place which Boston University School of Theology will play in the training of these leaders, the “Crusade for Christ” Committee of the Methodist Church has made a provisional offer of a third of a million dollars. A new building for the school is imperative, its present quarters being old and inadequate. This building will occupy a central place on the Charles River Campus as a symbol of the position of religion in life and the University. When the new building is completed, no finer facilities for theological training will be offered by any school in America.

The campaign, under the direction of Doctor Stewart, will be entirely in the hands of the alumni, the School of Theology faculty, and authorities of the University. President Daniel L. Marsh and Dean Walter G. Muelder of the School of Theology will each give direction to particular phases of the campaign. Plans already announced include the following:

1. Organization of a “one thousand club” among alumni and friends to consist of those who pledge either to give or get one thousand dollars by January 1st.

2. Organization of the School of Theology alumni in sectional groups for solicitation of personal as well as church subscriptions.

3. Organization of the general alumni of the University in local groups in cooperation with the alumni office.

4. Organization of the alumni of the School of Theology serving other than Methodist churches.

5. An appeal to Methodist Churches and Conferences throughout the country.

6. A special appeal to other than Methodist churches, especially those which have benefited through service of the School of Theology alumni.

7. The setting up, with the assistance of Bishop L. O. Hartman, of special campaigns in the conferences of the Boston area of the Methodist Church.

8. An appeal to individuals, churches, and groups to give memorials in the name of those killed in World War II and others.

9. An appeal to individuals. The list of possible interested persons is now being compiled.

In order to secure the third of a million dollars which has been offered to the School of Theology, the University must have the two thirds of a million on hand in cash on January 1st. Pledges are to be taken, however, payable by May 1st, 1949.

The influence of the School of Theology is world-wide, its graduates serving in places of leadership everywhere. No appeal is more timely than one to provide facilities for the training of the moral and spiritual leaders for the world. School of Theology alumni will be particularly interested in and desire to support the campaign, but all alumni and friends should be interested in this next step in the erection of a greater Boston University.

Names of possible donors, inquiries, and subscriptions should be sent to Dr. William H. Stewart, Campaign Director, School of Theology, 72 Mount Vernon Street, Boston 8, Massachusetts.
The program committee for the Medical School Alumni banquet, to be held in the Georgian Room of the Hotel Statler on May 9th, has been most fortunate in obtaining as principal speaker, Mr. Francis W. Dahl, well-known cartoonist on the Boston Herald. Mr. Dahl will speak and make sketches in his talk which he has entitled "Dahl Looks Things Over."

As an added feature and a means of acquainting School of Medicine alumni with the work of a very successful Alumni Fund, that of Dartmouth College, that committee will present Mr. Alex J. McFarland of the Class of 1930 of Dartmouth College. Mr. McFarland is a former member of the Dartmouth Alumni Council, a member of the Fund Committee, and at present is Secretary of the Class of 1930 at Dartmouth College. He will speak on the work of the Dartmouth Alumni Fund.

Highlights of the Present Year at the School of Medicine

Several developments have occurred at the School of Medicine during the current year which should hold considerable interest for the alumni. Included in such developments are changes in the buildings and grounds, changes in the staff and changes in the curriculum.

The alumni will, I hope, be particularly happy to learn that last summer the grounds about the School of Medicine were completely re-landscaped with a resulting improvement in the appearance of the School that must be seen to be believed. The old roadway was graded and paved and a parking place was created in front of the Talbot Memorial Building. The grass plot was graded and fresh loam added. Grass was sewn early in September and by mid-November a luxuriant growth had been obtained. Several shrubbery beds were planted and the ground planting about the buildings was improved. The entrances to Buildings B and C were partially redesigned and a small flagstone terrace was laid in the corner where the two buildings join.

All in all, a great improvement in the appearance of the School has been effected. It is hoped that as many alumni as possible will return on May 9 this year to see the new grounds. For those who cannot, we plan to have a photograph taken late in the Spring which we hope the Editor of BOSTONIA will reproduce on these pages.

Changes in the staff included the retirement of Dr. Walter Mendenhall on July 1, 1946. Dr. George L. Maison was appointed Professor of Pharmacology to succeed Dr. Mendenhall. Dr. Maison has introduced many innovations into the course in pharmacology, one of the most exciting of these being his development of a method for making kymograph tracings on electrically sensitized paper. The unhappy days of smoking and shellacking kymograph paper are a thing of the past at the School of Medicine, since the new method has also been adopted by the Department of Physiology.

Dr. Eleanor Ferguson, Professor of Anesthesiology, resigned on July 1, 1946, after serving for twenty-five years as a member of the School’s faculty. Dr. Ferguson has been succeeded by another alumna of the School, Dr. Julia Arrowood. The many other important changes in the faculty that have been made have been recorded in earlier numbers of BOSTONIA and I shall not attempt to review them at this time.

I believe that the alumni will want to know that two other professors who have served the School both long and well will retire at the end of the present year. They are Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft, Professor of Clinical Medicine and Dr. Helmuth Ulrich, Associate Professor of Medicine. It is hoped that their many friends among the alumni will make a special object of being present on Alumni Day to express to these men their appreciation for the help and friendship that they have extended to the student body for well over 30 years.

The most important change in the curriculum has been the departure from the accelerated war-time schedule and the return to the pre-war schedule of admitting and graduating one class each calendar year. Our freshman class entered in September this year and our seniors will graduate at the regular University Commencement in May.

During the present year a trial has been made of having a 48-week senior year instead of the customary 36-week year. This lengthened year has made it possible for the students to have additional experience in psychiatry, infectious diseases, and traumatic surgery. The 48-week senior year has met with such enthusiastic approval from both students and faculty, that the faculty has voted to continue it next year, with the modification that each student will have 2 four-week periods devoted to elective work.

A word should be said about the internships secured by the present senior class. The members of this class have obtained an unusually large number of excellent internships and they are to be congratulated. Several men are going to hospitals, in which for one reason or another, our graduates have not interned before.
Many other interesting and important developments have transpired at the School during the year. Those who return for Alumni Day will hear about and see many activities that I cannot include in this brief summary.

I would be remiss if I did not touch on one situation on which we cannot look with satisfaction. A large number of graduates recently returned from service have visited the School during the past year seeking advice and information with regard to opportunities for further hospital training. It has disturbed us greatly that in most instances we have not been able to inform these men of specific positions that were available. In the current press for hospital training, every hospital has had so many applicants that it has been rare indeed that any hospital has turned to us for assistance in finding residents. As a consequence, we have had to confine ourselves largely to giving advice in general terms rather than in pointing out specific opportunities.

We regret this as much as I know the graduates do, because the School has a deep interest in and concern for the subsequent training of its graduates after they leave the School. The alumni may be certain that we shall remain alert to the situation and that we shall always consider it our clear responsibility to give them all possible assistance in furthering their post-graduate training.

The School of Medicine is looking forward to a large gathering of its graduates on this, the first real post-war, Alumni Day. The Alumni may be certain that we shall strive in every way possible to make their reunion an enjoyable occasion.

DONALD G. ANDERSON

This special section of BOSTONIA for graduates of the Boston University Medical School invites attention to several important matters of the alumni program of the School of Medicine.

REUNION

The annual Medical School Alumni Reunion will be preceded this year by a one-day scientific session beginning at 10 a.m. on May 9, 1947. The program for the scientific session is listed below.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

MAY 9, 1947

10:00 A.M. The Treatment of Congestive Heart Failure: Dr. Norman H. Boyer.

News from the Registrar

The number of applications for admission to the School of Medicine this year has been the largest in the history of the School. In part this may be explained by the number of returning veterans, but we believe it also reflects an increasing interest in the School. To date we have had applications from 46 states representing 235 Universities or Colleges as well as applications from Canada, India, China, South America, Poland and Iran.

The Committee has made a particular effort this year to have each applicant interviewed by at least 3 members of the Faculty. These interviews have been most helpful in aiding the seven-man Admissions Committee. The Dean and the Registrar attended the meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges in Edgewater Park, Mississipi, and the Congress on Medical Education and Licensure in Chicago. In Chicago an opportunity was provided for interviews with candidates from the Chicago area.

This summer it is planned to renovate the Registrar's Office with the hope of securing a more efficient use of the available space.

An active effort is being made to effect close cooperation and exchange of ideas with the undergraduate schools in Boston University and with the other colleges whose students apply here for admission.

Returning alumni are always welcome and I wish to thank them for the interest they have shown in the selection of candidates.

LLOYD C. FOGG

11:00 A.M. Newer Concepts in the Management of Asthma: Dr. John J. Curry.

12:00 Noon Luncheon (outdoors — weather permitting).

2:00 P.M. Recent Developments in the Treatment of the Peciotic Ulcer.

2:30 P.M. The Use of Anesthetic Procedures in Diagnosis and Therapy: Dr. Julia Arrowood.

3:00 P.M. The Management of Acute Renal Insufficiency: Dr. Charles H. Burnett.

There will be no charge for the scientific program. The subjects and speakers have been selected to appeal especially to the practicing physician.

Medical School graduates are asked to note that the program this year will be held on Friday, May 9, 1947, and that it will be a one-day program.

The morning scientific session will be followed by a noon luncheon which will be held out-of-doors, weather permitting. The afternoon session will close in time to allow the doctors to prepare for the banquet in the evening which will be held in the Georgian Room of the Statler Hotel. A social hour at 6 p.m. will precede the banquet.

All meetings of the scientific session will be held in the Medical School Auditorium, Building "A."

SPECIAL DINNER

An innovation this year in the Medical School alumni program was a complimentary dinner sponsored jointly by the Boston University School of Medicine Alumni Association and the Boston University Alumni Association, on the evening of February 19, at the Hotel Vendome. All members of the Senior Class were present and were entertained by a speaking program, consisting of brief addresses by Dr. Frank M. Barton, Secretary of the Boston University Medical School Alumni Association, and Mr. Warren S. Freeman, Executive Alumni Secretary of Boston University; the main speaker of the evening was Dean Donald G. Anderson, who spoke on the "Opportunities and Responsibilities in the Medical Internship."

This meeting provided a very pleasant social opportunity for members of the Senior Class, and it is our hope that this dinner will become an annual affair.

ALUMNI FUND

Medical School alumni are invited to study the report of the Boston University Alumni Fund Roll Call for 1946 which is found elsewhere in this issue of BOSTONIA. Of special interest to the alumni of the Medical School will be the report of gifts from Medical School alumni members. The money last year was used to provide visual aids equipment for the Medical School. An exhibit of Medical School visual aids equipment and the uses to which this money has been put will be a part of the program at the reunion at the Medical School on May 9.

BOSTONIA
To the Alumni of Boston University:

On the pages which follow is recorded a report of alumni giving for the year 1946. The loyalty and generosity of Boston University alumni as evidenced by the gifts listed herein have been most enheartening to me personally and of real and material assistance in the development of the Boston University building program.

The past year has seen the beginning of the postwar development of our Charles River campus—a significant step forward in the expansion and development of our great University. Alumni contributions were a substantial factor in making possible the construction of the College of Liberal Arts and Science buildings in 1946 and 1947. Alumni listed in this fund report should feel justifiable pride in their new Boston University campus.

However, rapid as our growth has been since the close of war, the greater part of our building program is yet to be realized. In 1945 the officers and directors of the Alumni Association, after careful consideration of the extent to which alumni could pledge financial support, set the sum of $250,000 as the goal for the next three years. Of this amount $130,000 have been raised during the past two years.

At present writing $120,000 are needed during the year 1947 to enable the alumni to meet their goal. What you contribute towards achieving this figure will be received with grateful appreciation as your stake in the future of Boston University. Within this issue of BOSTONIA can be found the news of the next phase of our building program—erection of the Boston University School of Theology. May this serve as an inspiration to theology graduates and all alumni who realize the importance of religious leadership in our present-day society.

Again may I express my personal thanks and the thanks of the entire University for your enthusiastic support during the past year. It is my wish that the Charles River campus project be completed in the near future so that all departments (excepting, of course, the School of Medicine) may be joined in one physical plant thereby presenting to the world a unified and co-ordinated university prepared to assume its place of importance in serving the community, and, indeed, the whole wide world.

Your loyal support of Boston University in 1946 gives us courage to go forward.

Faithfully yours,

Daniel L. Marsh, President
HE SAW IT JUST ONCE
AND THAT WAS ALL HE NEEDED

This Boston University alumnus was approached by his class agent just once and shown the need of his contribution to the Alumni Fund. The agent pointed out the value of alumni contributions in helping to finance the University building program. He also told this interested Boston University alumnus of the many other projects which regular alumni contributions help to further here at the University. All this, in addition to the many benefits accrued from membership in the Alumni Association, was all the convincing our loyal graduate needed. Without another word he was off with his subscription blank and check to the nearest mailbox! Whatever the size of his gift, the spirit of regular giving which he has begun is what wins him our praise.

IT'S A RISKY JOB — THIS CLASS AGENT BUSINESS
Chasing here and there, tracking down errant class members who have yet to contribute to the Alumni Fund, is no easy task, as any class agent will tell you. Although there are many alumni who give and give regularly, there are unfortunately many more who must be contacted continually by letter, telephone, and in person to remind them of the pressing need for their contributions and to give them that extra little push that is often needed. We take our hats off to our loyal class agents whose enthusiasm, cheerfulness, and untiring effort deserve our whole-hearted commendation.

Women from various schools and colleges are listed, with years ranging from 1922 to 1947. The list includes names such as Mrs. Donald C. Foutler, Mrs. Raymond Peterson, Mrs. Samuel A. Cohen, Mrs. Mabel A. Jones, Mrs. Benjamin H. York, and many others. The text also mentions several men and their roles, including Herbert Robinson, Charles E. Gould Capon, George Twiss, J. R. Waters, and several others who are mentioned in various years and capacities. The document appears to be a roll of honor or a list of notable contributors from the College of Practical Arts and Letters.

OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING AGAIN

For those alumni who were unable to contribute to the Alumni Fund in 1946, as well as for those listed in this report, there is another opportunity this year to show your loyalty and pride in Boston University. The 1947 fund drive is now underway — it started with the Kick-Off Dinner on March 20 and we would like to see the alumni achieve and pass their stated goal of $120,000. Opportunity is knocking again. We earnestly hope that you will answer the call.

Veterans’ Administration

At the request of the Board of Directors of the Medical School Alumni Association, Dean Anderson has submitted the following report in regard to the position held by alumni in the Veterans’ Administration.

"Dr. Frank E. Barton, Secretary, Alumni Association
Boston University School of Medicine
Dear Doctor Barton:

The Executive Committee of the School of Medicine Alumni Association recently requested that I forward to you a report of the positions held by alumni veterans in the Veterans’ Administration. I am very pleased to transmit to you the following report.

"Early last year a Department of Medicine and Surgery was created in the Veterans’ Administration. This department, in the desire to secure for the veteran patient a standard of medical care comparable with that rendered in the best civilian hospitals, turned almost at once to the various medical schools throughout the country to ask for advice and assistance in planning an extensive residency training program in certain of the Veterans’ Administration Hospitals.

"In Massachusetts, the Veterans’ Administration asked the deans of the three medical schools to form a joint Boston Deans’ Committee to give counsel in all matters pertaining to the education and training of residents and to give advice regarding the appointment of qualified staffs of part-time civilian specialists. The three deans agreed to form such a committee and each dean selected from his faculty two advisers, one in medicine and one in surgery, to serve with him on the Committee. Your dean was fortunate in having as his advisers Dr. Chester S. Keefer, Wade Professor of Medicine, and Dr. Reginald H. Smithwick, Professor of Surgery.

"In organizing the resident training program, the Deans’ Committee has had as one of its objectives the development of residencies in the various specialties that would fulfill the training requirements of the different American Boards. This objective has already been largely achieved.

"In recommending the appointments of consultants, attending physicians, and residents in the Veterans’ Hospitals affiliated with the Boston Deans’ Committee, the Committee has endeavored to follow certain policies established by the Veterans’ Administration to the qualifications of appointees. The Veterans’ Administration has stipulated that Consultants should be men of professional rank or of equivalent standing in the practising profession of the community. It is desirable that they be certified by the American Board in their particular specialty and that they be veterans of either World War I or World War II.

"Attending physicians must be certified by their American Board and must be veterans of World War II.

"Physicians accepted for residency training must be graduates from approved medical schools, be veterans of World War II, and must have the intention of continuing their training to the point that they will be qualified for specialty-board certification.

"I know that you will be very interested to learn that thirty-four graduates or members of the teaching staff of the Boston University School of Medicine have accepted appointments to the Veterans’ Administration Hospitals in Massachusetts alone. In addition many of our graduates have secured appointments in Veterans’ Administration Hospitals in other states, but we have no official record of these appointments.

"The following are the names of our graduates or faculty members who now hold appointments in the Veterans’ Hospitals that are located in Massachusetts:

Consultants
Dr. John G. Downing
Dr. John A. Foley
Dr. Robert G. Vinal
Dr. Samuel N. Vose
Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft
Dr. Donald Munro
Dr. Benjamin Tenney, Jr.
Dr. Malcolm J. Farrell
Dr. Paul I. Yakolev

Residents
Dr. John G. Flynn
Dr. S. B. Manes
Dr. Melvin Rodin
Dr. Albert Aranson
Dr. Abraham R. Bloom
Dr. Paul I. Ossen

In addition, the following graduates or instructors have accepted full-time positions in the Massachusetts Veterans’ Administration hospitals as chief or assistant chiefs of service:

Dr. Egon Wissing
Dr. Ruth M. Anderson
Dr. Norman W. Elton
Dr. Daniel Holzman
Dr. John J. Cincotti

I hope that you will agree that the foregoing list of physicians associated with the Boston University School of Medicine who are contributing to the efforts of the Veterans’ Administration to render the best possible medical care to veteran patients is one of which the School and its alumni may be justly proud.”

Sincerely yours,

STANLEY E. SMITH, E’41, T’44

Letter to The Editor

The story of the General College which appeared in the March issue of BOSTONIA has aroused a great deal of interest among our alumni. The following letter is typical of the many gratifying responses which we have received here at the Alumni Office:

"Dear Sir:

I would like to let you know how very much I enjoy receiving BOSTONIA each month and how very much pleased I am with the forward looking administration of B. U. The new departments show that President Marsh and his associates are making some long-range planning and that once again B. U. is pioneering in American education as it has done in the past. I am very proud to be an alumnus of a university with such a program.

"With every good wish for the success of the Alumni Association of Boston University, I am,

Very sincerely,"

STANLEY E. SMITH, E’41, T’44

College of Liberal Arts
Class Report
Everything indicates that our fiftieth reunion will indeed be a memorable occasion for us. Many classmates will be present whom we have not seen for all these fifty years. We hope that the notes sent out by our committee after its first meeting have induced you to plan to take in all the festivities of the week end, May 24 to 26. It may seem rather strenuous to folks of our ages, but it will be worth the effort.

When we were in college there was no chapter of Phi Beta Kappa to inspire us to great scholastic efforts, but some ten of our class were awarded the key in the years, 1917 to 1921, when the alumni were taken in by this organization. These ten include: MARY BARNES HOLDEN, ELIZABETH PUTNAM CLARKE, ELLA CHASE COTTLE, ELOISE CROCKER, VIOLA MACCLELLAN DAY, GRACE WARD LOFBERG, MAUDE HOWE PHelps, GRACE SNOW, GEORGE BELL, and LUCIUS BUGBEE. Twenty per cent of the class is a fine rating in scholarship for 1897.

There is only one letter to report on, a nice one from FLORENCe EVELETH KOPPER. She and her husband live in New York City. They have three sons whom Florence describes as "useful citizens." She says that she has been looking forward to our fiftieth round-up for years and will surely be present — health permitting.

And now a word about myself. Before I retired from teaching, I built a small but charming house on Mayberry Hill in Casco, Maine. From my piazza I can see the entire presidential range, some sixty miles away. My life in the country has been very busy and happy. During the winter months, I am in Massachusetts, enjoying my family and keeping up with old friends.

We are all grateful to the many classmates who have written about their lives, their families, and their interests. We shall all feel better acquainted when we meet on May 24 for luncheon at the College Club, 40 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

LENA A. GLOVER, Class President

At a recent display at the Antique Auto Show in Horticultural Hall, Boston, E. JIFTS BEEDE, CLA, entered one of the most distinctive models, a 1906 "Royal Tourist" touring car, the only one of its kind in existence today. For 34 years the old car was stored away in a barn left to collect dust until last summer when Mr. Beede's son, E. Bennett Beede, pushed it into the light and fixed it up. After the rejuvenating treatment, the car rolled merrily along with the revived Glidden Tour to Columbus, Ohio. Because of its good condition and original equipment, the four-cylinder, 40 horse-power Royal won the Firestone Cup awarded to the car adjudged to be nearest to its original state. The car is now owned by the son, who is a transmission engineer, and a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the class of 1935.

1907
FERDINAND C. LANE, CLA, has written a book entitled, THE MYSTERIOUS SEA, which is the April offering of the Book of the Month Club. It is published by Doubleday & Company.

1913
MARY CASTLE OTT, CLA, who is living at 40 Plattsburg Court, N.W., Washington, D. C., has been retired from the college where she taught but for the past two years has been with the General Accounting Organization in the capital. As she said in her letter, "It is a far cry from a professor of history in a liberal arts college; but, at least, I feel that my training has not been entirely in the hibernating stage. I miss my students and the opportunity for discussion of the problems of this present-day world."

1915
ETHEL LORING BURNETT, CPES, and her husband, Louis Raymond Burnett, former instructor at Sargent in anatomy and director of the Sargent Camp, are living at 1112 Lancaster Road, Takoma Park, Maryland, where Mr. Burnett is college physician in charge of student health as well as head of the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at the University of Maryland. Mrs. Burnett writes that her two children, Loring Louis, 17, and Barbara Adele, 13, keep her busy at home.

1916
Mrs. DANIEL J. MURPHY, CLA, Grad’20, is at present living at 9 Worthington Drive, Westmoreland Hills, Maryland.

1917
RUTH RICHARDSON, CLA, Grad’21, is now with the Department of Spanish at Adelphi College. Her address is: Apartment J-26, Hamilton Place, Garden City, New Jersey.

1918
LILYAN MALMSTEAD, CPES, of 215 East 60th Street, New York City, is the author of a new book, 6 MINUTES TO FITNESS. Miss Malmstead describes her book as follows: "A new and simple approach to physical fitness in a system of exercises based on the premise that the body must be released from the evils of forward-bending caused by ordinary daily activities. This is accomplished by a process of uplifting the body through backward-bending exercises."

1920
ALDEN I. DAME, CBA, is living at 10 Jefferson Avenue, Takoma Park, Maryland. The present address of DORA L. DEXTER, CLA, Grad’21, RE’33, Grad’31, is now Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa. She was formerly in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

DOROTHY LUCAS, RE, is currently residing at 3208 Ellerslie Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland.
ELLSWORTH L. PATRIDGE, CBA, currently resides in Virginia at 2810 Valley Drive in Alexandria.
HERBERT A. STEBBINS, CBA, of 15 Longwood Road, Milton, is Vice Chairman of the Red Cross Fund Drive for 1947 in that city.
Mr. Horst has been with the company since 1928, in credit and operating posts, and prior to his latest appointment had been credit and operating manager in the Philadelphia district for eighteen months.

HAROLD G. MORGAN, CBA, is now an investigator in the insurance business, New Haven, Connecticut.
NELLIE R. WOODEN, RE, is currently living in Hampstead, Maryland.

1926
The Board of Directors of the Bankers Trust Company of New York has elected EARLE OLIVER AMES, CBA, as Assistant Treasurer. Mr. Ames has been with the bank since March, 1943.
ESTELLE FELDMAN, Ed, is at present a guidance advisor at the Fairhaven (Connecticut) High School.
JAMES T. GEARON, Ed, Ed (28), is now living at 4209 Russell Avenue, Mount Rainier, Maryland.
WALTER E. GILBERT, CBA, of 30 Ingraham Road, Wellesley, is a sheepskin manufacturer. He is married and the father of two children, Robert, seventeen, and Shirley, fourteen.

1927
CARL G. HORST, CBA, has been named Manager of Budget Administration of the Replacement Tire Sales division, The B. F. Goodrich Company with headquarters in Akron, Ohio. Mr. Horst has been with the company since 1928, in credit and operating posts, and prior to his latest appointment had been credit and operating manager in the Philadelphia district for eighteen months.

1928
Now Superintendent of the Wethersfield (Connecticut) schools is HARVEY FULLER, CBA, who makes his home at 251 Cleaford Road in that city.
WINSTON H. HARTFORD, CBA, is at present Research Supervisor, Mutual Chemical Company of America. He is President of the Mountain Club of Maryland and a member, Executive Committee, Maryland Section, American Chemical Society. His address is: 4421 Harcourt Road, Baltimore 14, Maryland.
HAROLD E. ROSEN, CBA, has been discharged from the service and has resumed his business activities with his brother, Albert; both are proprietors of Rosen's, Incorporated, well-known Drexham hardware store. HARVEY WHEATON, Ed, Ed (35), is currently Principal of the Morrill School, Concord, New Hampshire.

HELEN BRADBURN, CPES, is now in Panama. Her address is: Box 564, Ancon, Canal Zone, Panama.

At a Valentine's Day ceremony in St. Peter's Chapel, Salem, Althea Botlyn Henderson and THEODORE EPLER, CBA, were united in marriage. After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., the couple are residing in their newly built home at 31 Center Street, Danvers. The bride is a bookkeeper at the Fay Motor Company, Peabody. Mr. Eppler is Department Head at the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber & Company, Boston.
The nomination of VINCENT HENRY JACOBS, CBA, to be Brigadier General in the National Guard was recently sent to the Senate for confirmation by President Truman. Colonel Jacobs is a veteran of thirty years of service in the National Guard. During World War II he served with the 26th Division, the Adjutant General's office in Washington, and for two years was with the Eighth Air Force in England. Colonel Jacobs is a graduate of the Army War College the Command and General Staff School. With his other duties he is executive officer of the National Guard and office manager for the State Military Department. He makes his home at 355 Wold Street, West Roxbury.
Attorney PATRICK MARTOWSKI, CLA, Law '51, of Marjorie Street, Ware, has been named town counsel for that city by the selectmen. He is a veteran of World War II and served in the Army Intelligence overseas. Mr. Martowski is married and has one child.
