2005-11-14

Conference: Media and Politics

Boston University Institute for Human Sciences

http://hdl.handle.net/2144/20138

Boston University
SESSION III:
The Changing Shape of Today's Media

Tuesday, November 15 4:00 PM
LOCATION:
808 Commonwealth Avenue
Showroom (1st Floor)

_4:00 PM - KEYNOTE SPEECH
Orville Schell  Dean, Berkeley School of Journalism

_4:30 PM - PANEL DISCUSSION
James Hoge  Editor-in-Chief, Foreign Affairs (Chair)
Fred Barnes  Executive Editor, The Weekly Standard
Martin Baron  Editor, Boston Globe (Invited)
Martin Simecka  Editor-in-Chief, Sme
Eugeniusz Smolar  Senior Fellow, Centre for International Relations, Warsaw

_6:30 PM - RECEPTION

The Institute for Human Sciences at Boston University serves as a forum for new, non-partisan debate, research, and education in the matters of international (especially transatlantic) relations, introducing European insights and experiences into American debates on major social and political issues, and bringing American perspectives to bear on European discussions. It is affiliated with the Vienna-based Institut für die Wissenschaften vom Menschen (IWM), an independent, interdisciplinary center for advanced study in the humanities and social sciences.

Board of Directors

Timothy Garton Ash  Director, Center for European Studies, St. Antony’s College, Oxford
Irena Grudzinska Gross  Professor of Modern Languages and Literatures, Boston University (Executive Director)
James Hoge  Editor-in-Chief, Foreign Affairs
Ira Katznelson  Ruggles Professor of Political Science and History, Columbia University
Michael Mertes  Partner at “dimap consult”, a think tank based in Bonn and Berlin
Krzysztof Michalski  Professor of Philosophy, Boston University; Rector, IWM, Vienna (Chair)
Pierre Rosanvallon  Director of Studies, Centre de Recherches Politiques Raymond Aron, EHESS, Paris; Professor of Modern and Contemporary Politics, Collège de France
Lilia Shevtsova  Senior Associate, Carnegie Moscow Center
Aleksander Smolar  Senior Research Fellow at the CNRS, Paris; President, Stefan Batory Foundation, Warsaw
Fareed Zakaria  Editor-in-Chief, Newsweek International