2004-04-28

Panel discussion: The end of the affair? "New" Europe and the United States

Michnik, Adam
Boston University Institute for Human Sciences

http://hdl.handle.net/2144/20143

Boston University
The End of the Affair? "New" Europe and the United States, the final 2003–2004 panel discussion sponsored by the Institute for Human Sciences, is on Wednesday, April 28. Participants include Polish journalist Adam Michnik and author Jonathan Schell. Michnik, who spent six years in prison in Poland for his opposition to the communist regime, is the editor in chief of Gazeta Wyborcza, an independent Polish daily newspaper, which he helped found in 1989. Schell, a longtime contributor to The New Yorker, where his reports from Vietnam first appeared, is the author of several books — most famously, The Fate of the Earth — and also regularly contributes to The Nation, Harper's Magazine, and The Atlantic Monthly. The panel discussion is cosponsored by the Polish American Networking Organization. The event, at 6 p.m. in Room 206 of the Photonics Center, is free and open to the public. To RSVP or for more information, call 617-358-2778 or e-mail ihs@bu.edu.